Democrats Win Elections; Republicans Claim Gains

Democrats Are Last Hope For State Tax Bill

LANSING (AP)—Support from minority Democrats appeared to be the last hope today for Gov. George Romney's fiscal reform program to survive anti-income tax sentiment in the legislature.

Republican Senate leaders, reeling from a double defeat that all but killed the income tax bill Tuesday, indicated they will look for such support, but refused to say when.

In the House, Romney's package —with one major change— was headed for floor action after being approved by the GOP caucus in the skintight vote.

But Republican leaders there reaffirmed their oft-stated belief that no program containing an income tax could pass without Democratic assistance.

More Votes Needed

Democratic leaders in both houses sat back and waited for an invitation to talk tax reform.

A total of 56 votes is needed to pass a bill in the House. Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, said he hadn't changed his estimate that between 12 and 20 Democratic votes would be needed on the Romney program.

An informal count Tuesday showed four of the 52 House Democrats would back the plan, according to minority leader Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit.

Green said he expected more Republican votes would turn up on the floor than the 28 which instructed the tax committtee to report out the bills.

Following the two reversals for the Romney income tax in the Senate, majority leader Stanley Thayer, R-Ann Arbor, said he felt a "coalition with Democrats" would be the only way to end the stalemate.

Romney termed the Senate action "somewhat disappointing" but added that he still is confident of action there eventually.

Committee Deadlocked

"With the indications of Republican support in both houses," said the governor, "support of those Democrats who have voted for basic tax reform in the past will be sufficient to give the state the improved tax structure we need."

In the Senate, the first defeat for Romney's income tax bill came when the appropriations committee deadlocked, 5-5 on a motion by GOP members to report it out.

The second came when anti-income tax Republicans and Democrats, some of whom also oppose an income tax, beat off an effort by Thayer's so-called GOP "moderates" to amend a bill on the floor by substituting Romney's.

The governor visited a GOP caucus room for the first time in the special session, but to no avail.

Death Of Diems Called Suicide, But Accidental

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam's revolutionary government claimed today President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, commited "accidental suicide" — they were killed while struggling for a guard's pistol.

The latest official version of the brothers' deaths contradicts widely believed accounts that they were murdered by rebel troops in an armored personnel carrier last Saturday after they surrendered at a Roman Catholic church.

The revolutionary junta announced Saturday that Diem and Nhu, his closest adviser, shot themselves. Today Brig. Gen. Tran Tu Oai, minister of information in the new provisional government, gave this account to a news conference:

After the brothers surrendered, Diem entered the armored car but Nhu protested.

"Why are you using this armored car?" he asked.

A crowd had gathered and began shouting. The rebel officers were afraid that if Diem and Nhu were not spirited away, the mob would lynch them. An army captain tried to push Nhu into the carrier, but Nhu turned around and grabbed the captain's pistol. As they wrestled for the weapon, the officer managed to drag Nhu into the car.

Oai gave no further details but added:

"Their deaths occurred after Nhu took the pistol from the captain."

The bodies have been turned over to relatives for burial, the junta spokesman said. The bodies reportedly have been hidden awaiting burial instructions from another brother, Roman Catholic Archbishop Pierre Martin Ngo Dinh Thuc, who is attending the Vatican Ecumenical Council in Rome.

The junta will not request the extradition of Nhu's widow, who is in the United States.

Bus To Reno Crashes; 7 Die

TRUCKEE, Calif. (AP) — A special bus carrying fun seekers for a night's gaming at Reno, Nev., crashed in the stormy High Sierra Tuesday, killing 7 passengers, and injuring 32 including the driver.

Bodies were scattered up and down a rain-slicked freeway.

The victims were rushed to a small nearby Truckee hospital. The more seriously injured were taken on to Washoe Medical Center in Reno, 28 miles away.

All the dead were California men. Five were killed outright in the crash as the bus rolled over at least three times into a highway divider that also serves as a drainage ditch. Three of the five were found under the bus, resting on its side.

The bus driver, John Gastanik, Jr., 38, Sacramento, refused to comment on the mishap. He suffered head cuts.

In San Francisco, Greyhound officials said the bus was chartered by the Cal-Neva Casino in Reno to bring 38 persons, all but two Californians, up to the Nevada city for an overnight stay.

Profit is a native of Montgomery, Ala.

Castro Regime Reports 2 CIA Spies Executed

HAVANA (AP)—Two Cubans recruited by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency for a mission of espionage, sabotage and subversion have been killed, the government-controlled Cuban press reported Tuesday.

Juan Armestoy Rodriguez, one of the alleged agents, was killed by police several days ago, the announcement said. Duenas Landin was executed by a firing squad Monday, the report said.

Officials said Armestoy was sent on at least four missions to Cuba by the CIA.

The Castro regime has stepped up its denunciations of the CIA recently, charging it with a direct campaign of sabotage.

Support Split About Even On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has demonstrated that President Kennedy's foreign aid program has an almost equal number of enemies and friends in both political parties.

By a see-saw 43-40 vote the Senate turned back Tuesday a challenge by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., against a bipartisan compromise worked out last week by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Sensing the hostility against program, Mansfield and Dirksen proposed to cut an authorization bill back from the $4.2-billion ceiling approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to $3.8 billion. Ellender asked for an additional $75-million reduction.

If there hadn't been some fast footwork by the leaders Ellender would have won.

Faced with defeat, administration lieutenants sought help among senators who ordinarily support the President but had gone against the Mansfield-Dirksen compromise he was resigned to accepting.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., switched his vote on the Ellender amendment from yes to no. Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., found it convenient to withdraw their support and to "pair" themselves with absent opponents of the amendment.

The pairing device is used to record the position of senators, one or both of whom may be absent, without influencing the roll call result.

The three changes converted a 43-42 victory for Ellender into a 43-40 defeat.

On that test, the Democrats split 29-28 and the Republicans 14-12 with the majority of both parties opposing the amendment.

The Senate then turned around and adopted, 42-40, an amendment by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore. It cut $25 million off development loan funds and rescinded previous authority to continue this program for the next two years.

This represented an expression of the majority's opinion that there had better be an extensive overhauling of the foreign aid program next year or else.

On this test, the Democrats wound up deadlocked, 29-29. The Republicans voted 13 to 11 in favor of the Morse proposal.

France Trying To Impose Big Steel Tariffs

PARIS (AP)—France is urging her Commmon Market partners to increase the trade bloc's tariffs on steel—a step which could make the chicken war look like chicken feed.

If the other five nations don't go along, France could act unilaterally through a loophole in the six-nation steel-coal treaty. Such action would endanger European economic unity.

The French government proposed the steel tariff increase Oct. 7 at a ministerial meeting of the coal-steel pool. The West German government, then headed by Konrad Adenauer, supported the French. The question is due to be decided at a meeting in Luxembourg Dec. 2.

The French proposal—to return to the tariff schedule that prevailed before 1958—would virtually double the tariff on certain types of steel imported by the six nations — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

It remains to be seen whether West Germany's new chancellor, Ludwig Erhard, will continue to back up the French demand, described by one source as vehement.

The United States staunchly opposes any increase in European steel tariffs and is considering taking the matter to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), it was learned here today. The OECD links the United

Vote Margins Slim; Kentucky Race Is Close

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats kept control today of such keenly contested posts as the Kentucky and Mississippi governorships and the Philadelphia mayor's chair.

But tallies from Tuesday's elections led the GOP to speak of "dramatic inroads" into Democratic strongholds.

The Kentucky race was a close one. Mississipppi Republicans, mounting their first serious attempt on the governorship since Reconstruction days, rolled up a considerable vote in defeat.

In Philadelphia, Democrats kept their grip on City Hall by about 67,000 votes—but this was their smallest margin in a mayoral race in 10 years.

Civil Rights Involved

In all of these races—plus some others—the issue of civil rights figured.

Politicians will be studying the tallies for 1964 omens to learn for example, whether a so-called "white backlash" against the militant Negro drive for more and better jobs, freer choice of housing and other aims, will hurt President Kennedy next year.

Republicans could look with satisfaction on such states as Indiana—where dozens of mayors' posts switched from Democratic to Republican. But the Indianapolis City Hall stayed Democratic by a narrow margin.

In San Francisco, Rep. John F. Shelley, D-Calif., apparently won out for mayor in an election officially billed as non-partisan. His opponent was supervisor Harold Dobbs, Republican. The retiring mayor is George Christopher, Republican.

Jersey Stays With GOP

In New Jersey, the Republicans kept control of the State Senate by a sweep, and moved toward taking the Assembly from Democrats.

In Kentucky, a still-incomplete count showed Democrat Edward T. Breathitt Jr. the winner for the governorship, but by only about 15,000 votes out of some 860,000 votes thus far counted.

His Republican foe, Louie B. Nunn, charged voting irregularities and asked supporters to "stand by the voting machines and ballot boxes."

Nunn, after first conceding defeat, said "the race is not over yet." But it appeared the uncounted precincts could not change the outcome.

Nunn, in his campaign, had borne down heavily in criticism of an order, issued by retiring Democratic Gov. Bert Combs, barring racial discrimination in businessses licensed by the state. He also had roundly criticized the Kennedy administration.

Kennedy could take no comfort from the Mississippi governorship result because both the winner, Democratic Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, and the loser, Republican Rubel Phillips, made a point of opposing him and integration.

Solid Trend Seen

The Republican vote was smaller than Phillips hoped for — with 1,580 of 1,877 precincts counted it stood: Johnson 172,237, Phillips 101,605. But it's something new for a Republican to get that many votes for Mississippi governor.

The victor in the Philadelphia mayoralty fight was Democratic Mayor James H. J. Tate, for whom Kennedy made a campaign trip. Loser was James T. McDermott, 37-year-old lawyer who never has held public office.

Racial overtones got into this campaign. Tate accused McDer-

Backing Of U.S. Assured New Saigon Regime

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reviewing its policies in South Viet Nam — including its military and aid programs — in preparation for backing Saigon's new military regime.

U.S. officials today described the review as normal procedure before resumption of diplomatic relations with a new government.

The U.S. aid program in South Viet Nam which has been running at the rate of more than $500 million a year is being given a sharp review. The general feeling here is that if the new provisional government cooperates as it is hoped it will, there will be many opportunities for more efficient use of the funds.

There is not much hope though for any sharp reductions as long as the Communist threat remains.

One of the reviews dealt with the military strategy in the fight against the Communist Viet Cong.

President Ngo Dinh Diem, who died in the military coup, had been convinced the Communist forces would attempt to cut South Viet Nam in half by a strike across the country north of Saigon.

Consequently, Diem ordered priority given to the construction of strategic hamlets, the fortified villages, in the north. American military advisers had strongly urged Diem to concentrate the strategic hamlets in the southern delta regeion where two-thirds of all the Communist raids are made.

It is expected that some of the strategic hamlets that cannot be defended without tying down a large number of troops will be eliminated.

Hunter Killed By Cartridge In Shirt Pocket

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP)—An explosion of a high velocity rifle cartridge or cartridges killed a Bozeman hunter, Coroner Alexander M. Schmall said Tuesday. He called it a "one-in-a-million happening."

The body of Victor Vermillion, 25, was found near a deer he apparently had killed and partially cleaned. His rifle was nearby.

He added: "As far as we know he was not hit by a rifle slug. Death was from a cartridge explosion. There's definitely no bullet in the man, only fragmentations of the explosion."

Wallendas Fall As Wire Snaps

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A wire snapped beneath the Great Wallendas circus troupe Tuesday as it practiced "the seven," a human pyramid. Six were injured, none seriously.

Karl Wallenda, 57, leader of the troupe, said the wire, which was stretched between two trees at winter quarters, was only 12 feet off the ground.

"All we know is there was a big crash," he said. "Something gave. If we had been high, at least two would have been killed."

It was the first time the Wallendas had tried "the seven" since the pyramid came apart high above the concrete floor of the Detroit Coliseum in January 1962. Two were killed and one was injured so badly he will never walk again.

At Tuesday's rehearsal Jenny Faughnan was easing into the chair to form the top of the pyramid when the wire snapped.

Gunther Wallenda was struck under the chin by a shoulder pole and suffered facial cuts. Louis Murillo, 29, received wire burns and Karl Wallenda was x-rayed for possible pelvic injuries.

Paul Jordan, 33; Herman Wallenda, 62, and Jenny were bruised. Andy Anderson, 28, wasn't hurt.

The troupe has a date to perform the pyramid at Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 20.

Soviets Yield; U.S. Convoy Rolls Into West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — A solid display of Allied unity was followed by a Soviet backdown on the East-West autobahn today, and a U.S. Army convoy rolled triumphantly into West Berlin.

A two-day war of nerves over Allied rights ended in the small hours after the British and French sent units on to the 110-mile autobahn in support of the American convoy blocked since Monday by the Russians.

The British and French convoys went through without interference. And early today the Soviet officers dropped their demand that the 44 American soldiers submit to a head count. Then they pulled back the armored cordon blocking the autobahn near the West German border and the Americans went through.

Big Crowd Cheers

Soon after dawn the 12-vehicle convoy arrived in West Berlin. The convoy's 25-year-old commanding officer, Lt. John Lamb of Wewanitchka, Fla., sat erect and unsmiling in the lead jeep.

A big crowd waited through a cold and foggy night to cheer the convoy.

As soon as the convoy was safely through, the U.S. Army sent 56 more men on to the autobahn, traveling from West Germany to West Berlin in four vehicles.

This convoy, unlike its predecessor, dismounted for counting by the Soviets at Marienborn on the western end of the lifeline highway.

No erosion of Allied principle was involved, however. The Allies accept counting when a convoy carries more than 30 men in addition to the driver and co-driver of each vehicle.

The Soviets cleared the second convoy quickly.

Maneuvers Resumed

With the autobahn tension temporarily lifted. The Army reinstated a Berlin exercise which had been twice postponed. More than 5,000 Americans, the entire U.S. brigade in Berlin, were ordered into their annual fall maneuvers to test city defenses.

A U. S. spokesman said the exercise is limited to Berlin and there is no possibility of a confrontation with the Russians.

Allied officials mulled over a variety of likely reasons for the Soviet blockade—the third in less than a month—and its sudden withdrawal.

One theory was that the Soviets wanted to force the Western Powers into negotiation on something which they have declared unnegotiable—their right by conquest to set their own rules for access to Berlin.

Another was that the Soviets wanted to flex their muscles in advance of Communist bloc talks intended to denounce Red China's heresies. The Peking Reds charge the Russians are too soft with the West.

Mrs. Nhu Stays In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu was expected to move out of her $90-a-day suite today and set up housekeeping in the Los Angeles area for herself and her four children.

South Viet Nam's widowed former First Lady changed her mind late Tuesday about joining her three younger children in Rome today. She said she'd fly them here instead as soon as possible.

Mrs. Nhu said she "could not endure the trip at this time," according to George White, manager of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel where she has been staying.

House Offered

Mrs. Nhu has been offered use of the home of Allen Chase, an associate of television star Art Linkletter, in the exclusive Bel-Air district. Mrs. Chase said she had received no definite word as yet whether Mrs. Nhu will accept the offer.

Chase, who has business connections in Australia and the Orient, met late President Ngo Dinh Diem several times in Saigon, Mrs. Chase explained.

The children, ages 15, 11 and 4, were flown to Rome Tuesday with permission of the new government of South Viet Nam, which overthrew the ruling Diem family Friday in a military coup. The children were in a resort northeast of Saigon during the revolt.

Mrs. Nhu had been scheduled to leave this morning on a flight to Rome with her eldest daughter, Le Thuy, 18, and her Vietnamese secretary who had accompanied her on her trip abroad.

Finances Pinched?

Informed sources said Mrs. Nhu's decision to remain in the United States may have been influenced by financial problems, possible difficulty in returning here, an outpouring of sympathy for her in thousands of messages from Americans and profitable offers of speaking engagements and magazine articles.

A source close to Mrs. Nhu said Tuesday that she left Saigon five weeks ago with $5,000 spending money for herself, her daughter and her secretary. He said she had no money banked abroad. The only member who had control over large sums of money was her brother-in-law, Archbishop Pierre Martin Ngo Dinh Thuc, "and that was church money," the source said.

There have been rumors in Saigon, however, that Mrs. Nhu and her family had large sums of money banked in France and in New York.

Not Defeated

Mrs. Nhu might have had visa trouble had she left the United States and wanted to return. Washington officials said she was traveling on a diplomatic passport issued by the defunct Diem regime. She would need a new visa, they said, which could not be supplied unless she had a valid travel document issued by the new Vietnamese government.

The new government of South Viet Nam said Tuesday it would not request the extradition of Mrs. Nhu.

In a brief appearance in public Tuesday, Mrs. Nhu answered only one newsman's question—whether she felt defeated.

"Never!" she shouted, "I have always felt the immortal soul is much more important than the flesh."

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., switched his vote on the Ellender amendment from yes to no. Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., found it convenient to withdraw their support and to "pair" themselves with absent opponents of the amendment.

The pairing device is used to record the position of senators, one or both of whom may be absent, without influencing the roll call result.

The three changes converted a 43-42 victory for Ellender into a 43-40 defeat.

On that test, the Democrats split 29-28 and the Republicans 14-12 with the majority of both parties opposing the amendment.

The Senate then turned around and adopted, 42-40, an amendment by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore. It cut $25 million off development loan funds and rescinded previous authority to continue this program for the next two years.

This represented an expression of the majority's opinion that there had better be an extensive overhauling of the foreign aid program next year or else.

On this test, the Democrats wound up deadlocked, 29-29. The Republicans voted 13 to 11 in favor of the Morse proposal.

Farm Prices Up

LANSING (AP)—The index of prices received by Michigan farmers in October was 226 points, up one point from September. Price decreases for corn, fruit and meat animals were offset by increases for milk, vegetables and cash field crops.

France Trying To Impose Big Steel Tariffs

PARIS (AP)—France is urging her Commmon Market partners to increase the trade bloc's tariffs on steel—a step which could make the chicken war look like chicken feed.

If the other five nations don't go along, France could act unilaterally through a loophole in the six-nation steel-coal treaty. Such action would endanger European economic unity.

The French government proposed the steel tariff increase Oct. 7 at a ministerial meeting of the coal-steel pool. The West German government, then headed by Konrad Adenauer, supported the French. The question is due to be decided at a meeting in Luxembourg Dec. 2.

The French proposal—to return to the tariff schedule that prevailed before 1958—would virtually double the tariff on certain types of steel imported by the six nations — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

It remains to be seen whether West Germany's new chancellor, Ludwig Erhard, will continue to back up the French demand, described by one source as vehement.

The United States staunchly opposes any increase in European steel tariffs and is considering taking the matter to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), it was learned here today. The OECD links the United

Vote Margins Slim; Kentucky Race Is Close

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats kept control today of such keenly contested posts as the Kentucky and Mississippi governorships and the Philadelphia mayor's chair.

But tallies from Tuesday's elections led the GOP to speak of "dramatic inroads" into Democratic strongholds.

The Kentucky race was a close one. Mississipppi Republicans, mounting their first serious attempt on the governorship since Reconstruction days, rolled up a considerable vote in defeat.

In Philadelphia, Democrats kept their grip on City Hall by about 67,000 votes—but this was their smallest margin in a mayoral race in 10 years.

Civil Rights Involved

In all of these races—plus some others—the issue of civil rights figured.

Politicians will be studying the tallies for 1964 omens to learn for example, whether a so - called "white backlash" against the militant Negro drive for more and better jobs, freer choice of housing and other aims, will hurt President Kennedy next year.

Republicans could look with satisfaction on such states as Indiana—where dozens of mayors' posts switched from Democratic to Republican. But the Indianapolis City Hall stayed Democratic by a narrow margin.

In San Francisco, Rep. John F. Shelley, D-Calif., apparently won out for mayor in an election officially billed as non-partisan. His opponent was supervisor Harold Dobbs, Republican. The retiring mayor is George Christopher, Republican.

Jersey Stays With GOP

In New Jersey, the Republicans kept control of the State Senate by a sweep, and moved toward taking the Assembly from Democrats.

In Kentucky, a still-incomplete count showed Democrat Edward T. Breathitt Jr. the winner for the governorship, but by only about 15,000 votes out of some 860,000 votes thus far counted.

His Republican foe, Louie B. Nunn, charged voting irregularities and asked supporters to "stand by the voting machines and ballot boxes."

Nunn, after first conceding defeat, said "the race is not over yet." But it appeared the uncounted precincts could not change the outcome.

Nunn, in his campaign, had borne down heavily in criticism of an order, issued by retiring Democratic Gov. Bert Combs, barring racial discrimination in businessses licensed by the state. He also had roundly criticized the Kennedy administration.

Kennedy could take no comfort from the Mississippi governorship result because both the winner, Democratic Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, and the loser, Republican Rubel Phillips, made a point of opposing him and integration.

Solid Trend Seen

The Republican vote was smaller than Phillips hoped for — with 1,580 of 1,877 precincts counted it stood: Johnson 172,237, Phillips 101,605. But it's something new for a Republican to get that many votes for Mississippi governor.

The victor in the Philadelphia mayoralty fight was Democratic Mayor James H. J. Tate, for whom Kennedy made a campaign trip. Loser was James T. McDermott, 37-year-old lawyer who never has held public office.

Racial overtones got into this campaign. Tate accused McDer-

Backing Of U.S. Assured New Saigon Regime

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reviewing its policies in South Viet Nam — including its military and aid programs — in preparation for backing Saigon's new military regime.

U.S. officials today described the review as normal procedure before resumption of diplomatic relations with a new government.

The U.S. aid program in South Viet Nam which has been running at the rate of more than $500 million a year is being given a sharp review. The general feeling here is that if the new provisional government cooperates as it is hoped it will, there will be many opportunities for more efficient use of the funds.

There is not much hope though for any sharp reductions as long as the Communist threat remains.

One of the reviews dealt with the military strategy in the fight against the Communist Viet Cong.

President Ngo Dinh Diem, who died in the military coup, had been convinced the Communist forces would attempt to cut South Viet Nam in half by a strike across the country north of Saigon.

Consequently, Diem ordered priority given to the construction of strategic hamlets, the fortified villages, in the north. American military advisers had strongly urged Diem to concentrate the strategic hamlets in the southern delta regeion where two-thirds of all the Communist raids are made.

It is expected that some of the strategic hamlets that cannot be defended without tying down a large number of troops will be eliminated.

Hunter Killed By Cartridge In Shirt Pocket

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP)—An explosion of a high velocity rifle cartridge or cartridges killed a Bozeman hunter, Coroner Alexander M. Schmall said Tuesday. He called it a "one-in-a-million happening."

The body of Victor Vermillion, 25, was found near a deer he apparently had killed and partially cleaned. His rifle was nearby.

He added: "As far as we know he was not hit by a rifle slug. Death was from a cartridge explosion. There's definitely no bullet in the man, only fragmentations of the explosion."

Wallendas Fall As Wire Snaps

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A wire snapped beneath the Great Wallendas circus troupe Tuesday as it practiced "the seven," a human pyramid. Six were injured, none seriously.

Karl Wallenda, 57, leader of the troupe, said the wire, which was stretched between two trees at winter quarters, was only 12 feet off the ground.

"All we know is there was a big crash," he said. "Something gave. If we had been high, at least two would have been killed."

It was the first time the Wallendas had tried "the seven" since the pyramid came apart high above the concrete floor of the Detroit Coliseum in January 1962. Two were killed and one was injured so badly he will never walk again.

At Tuesday's rehearsal Jenny Faughnan was easing into the chair to form the top of the pyramid when the wire snapped.

Gunther Wallenda was struck under the chin by a shoulder pole and suffered facial cuts. Louis Murillo, 29, received wire burns and Karl Wallenda was x-rayed for possible pelvic injuries.

Paul Jordan, 33; Herman Wallenda, 62, and Jenny were bruised. Andy Anderson, 28, wasn't hurt.

The troupe has a date to perform the pyramid at Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 20.

Soviets Yield; U.S. Convoy Rolls Into West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — A solid display of Allied unity was followed by a Soviet backdown on the East-West autobahn today, and a U.S. Army convoy rolled triumphantly into West Berlin.

A two-day war of nerves over Allied rights ended in the small hours after the British and French sent units on to the 110-mile autobahn in support of the American convoy blocked since Monday by the Russians.

The British and French convoys went through without interference. And early today the Soviet officers dropped their demand that the 44 American soldiers submit to a head count. Then they pulled back the armored cordon blocking the autobahn near the West German border and the Americans went through.

Big Crowd Cheers

Soon after dawn the 12-vehicle convoy arrived in West Berlin. The convoy's 25-year-old commanding officer, Lt. John Lamb of Wewanitchka, Fla., sat erect and unsmiling in the lead jeep.

A big crowd waited through a cold and foggy night to cheer the convoy.

As soon as the convoy was safely through, the U.S. Army sent 56 more men on to the autobahn, traveling from West Germany to West Berlin in four vehicles.

This convoy, unlike its predecessor, dismounted for counting by the Soviets at Marienborn on the western end of the lifeline highway.

No erosion of Allied principle was involved, however. The Allies accept counting when a convoy carries more than 30 men in addition to the driver and co-driver of each vehicle.

The Soviets cleared the second convoy quickly.

Maneuvers Resumed

With the autobahn tension temporarily lifted. The Army reinstated a Berlin exercise which had been twice postponed. More than 5,000 Americans, the entire U.S. brigade in Berlin, were ordered into their annual fall maneuvers to test city defenses.

A U. S. spokesman said the exercise is limited to Berlin and there is no possibility of a confrontation with the Russians.

Allied officials mulled over a variety of likely reasons for the Soviet blockade—the third in less than a month—and its sudden withdrawal.

One theory was that the Soviets wanted to force the Western Powers into negotiation on something which they have declared unnegotiable—their right by conquest to set their own rules for access to Berlin.

Another was that the Soviets wanted to flex their muscles in advance of Communist bloc talks intended to denounce Red China's heresies. The Peking Reds charge the Russians are too soft with the West.

Mrs. Nhu Stays In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu was expected to move out of her $90-a-day suite today and set up housekeeping in the Los Angeles area for herself and her four children.

South Viet Nam's widowed former First Lady changed her mind late Tuesday about joining her three younger children in Rome today. She said she'd fly them here instead as soon as possible.

Mrs. Nhu said she "could not endure the trip at this time," according to George White, manager of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel where she has been staying.

House Offered

Mrs. Nhu has been offered use of the home of Allen Chase, an associate of television star Art Linkletter, in the exclusive Bel-Air district. Mrs. Chase said she had received no definite word as yet whether Mrs. Nhu will accept the offer.

Chase, who has business connections in Australia and the Orient, met late President Ngo Dinh Diem several times in Saigon, Mrs. Chase explained.

The children, ages 15, 11 and 4, were flown to Rome Tuesday with permission of the new government of South Viet Nam, which overthrew the ruling Diem family Friday in a military coup. The children were in a resort northeast of Saigon during the revolt.

Mrs. Nhu had been scheduled to leave this morning on a flight to Rome with her eldest daughter, Le Thuy, 18, and her Vietnamese secretary who had accompanied her on her trip abroad.

Finances Pinched?

Informed sources said Mrs. Nhu's decision to remain in the United States may have been influenced by financial problems, possible difficulty in returning here, an outpouring of sympathy for her in thousands of messages from Americans and profitable offers of speaking engagements and magazine articles.

A source close to Mrs. Nhu said Tuesday that she left Saigon five weeks ago with $5,000 spending money for herself, her daughter and her secretary. He said she had no money banked abroad. The only member who had control over large sums of money was her brother-in-law, Archbishop Pierre Martin Ngo Dinh Thuc, "and that was church money," the source said.

There have been rumors in Saigon, however, that Mrs. Nhu and her family had large sums of money banked in France and in New York.

Not Defeated

Mrs. Nhu might have had visa trouble had she left the United States and wanted to return. Washington officials said she was traveling on a diplomatic passport issued by the defunct Diem regime. She would need a new visa, they said, which could not be supplied unless she had a valid travel document issued by the new Vietnamese government.

The new government of South Viet Nam said Tuesday it would not request the extradition of Mrs. Nhu.

In a brief appearance in public Tuesday, Mrs. Nhu answered only one newsman's question—whether she felt defeated.

"Never!" she shouted, "I have always felt the immortal soul is much more important than the flesh."

Harnischfeger Board Chairman 50-Year Worker

Walter Harnischfeger, chairman of the Board, was one of 616 employes honored Nov. 1 at Harnischfeger Corporation's Quarter Century Club dinner. Harnischfeger is the only living employe, active or retired, to reach the 50 year anniversary mark.

In honor of his 50th anniversary the company announced that a college scholarship program is being established. President Henry Harnischfeger said that the company will award two college scholarships each year to qualified employes or children of active or retired employes. The scholarships will cover full cost of tuition, room and board and will also provide summer jobs for the students at Harnischfeger.

Walter Harnischfeger started as a 10-cent an hour apprentice in 1913 when the firm was still known as the Pawling and Harnischfeger Company. After spending several years working in the plant during the day and attending school at night he was named a company salesman.

In 1930 he became president of the firm succeeding his father, Henry Harnischfeger, a co-founder of the company. Walter Harnischfeger headed the firm while it fought for survival during the depression and saw its sales rise from a depression low of $1.8 million to the present $87 million.

Under his direction the company gradually discarded such products as skimmer skoops, pipe hustlers, pitching machines and barrel renovators. In their place the firm developed a diversified product line which today includes welding machines and electrodes, construction and mining equipment, overhead cranes and hoists, diesel engines and manufactured homes.

The company has been transformed from a single plant operation to one which today has four plants in this country and manufacturing affiliates in Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Australia, Canada, Japan, Germany and India.

Harnischfeger Corp. now employes 4300 and is one of the 500 largest industrial firms in the United States.

Three other veteran employes were honored with Walter Harnischfeger at the dinner. Receiving gold watches for 45 years of service with Harnischfeger were machinist Elmer Hensel, Inspector Joe Scheibel and Chief Engineer Frank Wendelburg.

Quarter Century club officers installed at the meeting were President Tom Janz, Vice President Melvin Haugen and Trustees Howard Dobratz, Theodore Eberle, Karl Hinrichs, Victor Ramshak and Arthur Wearing.

BOARD CHAIRMAN Walter Harnischfeger presented lapel pins to veteran Harnischfeger Corp. employes at ceremonies preceding the company's Quarter Century Club dinner on Nov. 1. Praises Work For Retarded

Michael C. Kreider, executive director of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children, praised progress for the retarded in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, when he addressed the Northern Michigan Conference on mental retardation at Northern Michigan University last Saturday.

Kreider said programs for the retarded in several Northern Michigan areas compare favorably with those of more heavily populated and industrialized areas of the state. He also called attention to new programs now underway at Newberry's children unit.

He pointed out that outstanding programs for retarded children do not depend on population density, urbanization, or huge sums of money.

Kreider said that in Europe some of the most outstanding programs were in countries where the economy was not primarily industrial and where difficult terrain of the country separated large areas of the population.

Attending the conference from this area were: Mrs. Fred Juetten and Mrs. Milton Embs, teachers in the Bay Center for Retarded Children at Escanaba; Camille and Christine Rabitoy of Gladstone; Dr. and Mrs. George Maniaci of Gladstone and Dr. Maniaci's sister, Angie, who is visiting here from Cheyenne, Wyo.

Rosary Society Meeting Held In Bark River

BARK RIVER—Mrs. Bernard Kleiman, chairman of the Libraries and Literature committee, with the assistance of Mrs. Carl Sarasin and Mrs. Leo Knauf, presented the spiritual program at the regular meeting of St. George Rosary Society in the Parish Hall Monday night.

The work of the Ecumenical Council furnished the theme for the evening's program. Mrs. Kleiman spoke on the liturgy and the introduction of the vernacular into the Mass of the church and Mrs. Sarasin on the nature of the church. Mrs. Knauf discussed the laymen's participation in church work.

Reports on the committee meetings at the Escanaba Deanery meeting in October were given by: Mrs. John Kane, Catholic Truth; Mrs. James Anderson, Bishop Baraga; Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, Mrs. Leonard Niquette; Spiritual Development, Mrs. Ellsworth Nault; Organization and Development, Mrs. Leonard Veeser; Public Relations, Mrs. I. R. Nelson.

Announcement was made of the annual Thanksgiving Clothing Drive. St. Patrick's Circle with Mrs. Henry Bonjean as chairman, will pack the clothing for shipment the last week in November.

The December program will be by the CCD Committee with Mrs. Leonard Niquette as chairman and the Sacred Heart Circle with Mrs. John Dlugas as chairman will function in December. The guest prize was won by Mrs. Bernard Lewis and the $25 Savings Bond from Sunday's Diamond Jubilee dinner went to Emma Anderle of Carney.

Harnischfeger Board Chairman 50-Year Worker

Walter Harnischfeger, chairman of the Board, was one of 616 employes honored Nov. 1 at Harnischfeger Corporation's Quarter Century Club dinner. Harnischfeger is the only living employe, active or retired, to reach the 50 year anniversary mark.

In honor of his 50th anniversary the company announced that a college scholarship program is being established. President Henry Harnischfeger said that the company will award two college scholarships each year to qualified employes or children of active or retired employes. The scholarships will cover full cost of tuition, room and board and will also provide summer jobs for the students at Harnischfeger.

Walter Harnischfeger started as a 10-cent an hour apprentice in 1913 when the firm was still known as the Pawling and Harnischfeger Company. After spending several years working in the plant during the day and attending school at night he was named a company salesman.

In 1930 he became president of the firm succeeding his father, Henry Harnischfeger, a co-founder of the company. Walter Harnischfeger headed the firm while it fought for survival during the depression and saw its sales rise from a depression low of $1.8 million to the present $87 million.

Under his direction the company gradually discarded such products as skimmer skoops, pipe hustlers, pitching machines and barrel renovators. In their place the firm developed a diversified product line which today includes welding machines and electrodes, construction and mining equipment, overhead cranes and hoists, diesel engines and manufactured homes.

The company has been transformed from a single plant operation to one which today has four plants in this country and manufacturing affiliates in Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Australia, Canada, Japan, Germany and India.

Harnischfeger Corp. now employes 4300 and is one of the 500 largest industrial firms in the United States.

Three other veteran employes were honored with Walter Harnischfeger at the dinner. Receiving gold watches for 45 years of service with Harnischfeger were machinist Elmer Hensel, Inspector Joe Scheibel and Chief Engineer Frank Wendelburg.

Quarter Century club officers installed at the meeting were President Tom Janz, Vice President Melvin Haugen and Trustees Howard Dobratz, Theodore Eberle, Karl Hinrichs, Victor Ramshak and Arthur Wearing.

BOARD CHAIRMAN Walter Harnischfeger presented lapel pins to veteran Harnischfeger Corp. employes at ceremonies preceding the company's Quarter Century Club dinner on Nov. 1. Harnischfeger (right) also honored at the dinner for reaching his 50th anniversary as an employe of the firm, presents a 45-year pin to (left) Elmer Hensel, West Allis.

Praises Work For Retarded

Michael C. Kreider, executive director of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children, praised progress for the retarded in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, when he addressed the Northern Michigan Conference on mental retardation at Northern Michigan University last Saturday.

Kreider said programs for the retarded in several Northern Michigan areas compare favorably with those of more heavily populated and industrialized areas of the state. He also called attention to new programs now underway at Newberry's children unit.

He pointed out that outstanding programs for retarded children do not depend on population density, urbanization, or huge sums of money.

Kreider said that in Europe some of the most outstanding programs were in countries where the economy was not primarily industrial and where difficult terrain of the country separated large areas of the population.

Attending the conference from this area were: Mrs. Fred Juetten and Mrs. Milton Embs, teachers in the Bay Center for Retarded Children at Escanaba; Camille and Christine Rabitoy of Gladstone; Dr. and Mrs. George Maniaci of Gladstone and Dr. Maniaci's sister, Angie, who is visiting here from Cheyenne, Wyo.

Ecuador has an area of 104,506 square miles.

Bay Shipping History Recalls Passenger Era

THE STEAMER SAILOR BOY of the Hart Line, which ran from Sturgeon Bay to Green Bay ports and to Escanaba, Gladstone and Nahma, was built in 1891 in Bay City. She ended her career in Lake Superior service, burning in 1924. Her remains may still be seen on Portage Lake, the Keweenaw Peninsula waterway. (Ship and Shipwrecks in Door County Photo)

Volume 2 of "Ships and Shipwrecks of Door County, Wisconsin" by Arthur C. Frederickson and Lucy F. Frederickson of Frankfort, Mich., ($2, Door County Publishing Co., Sturgeon Bay, Wis., 76 pages) is off the press and Great Lakes buffs have another nugget for their libraries.

The book is dedicated to Capt. John Roen "whose love for the sea and ships has contributed in many ways to the growth of Sturgeon Bay and Door County." Captain Roen owns Burnt Bluff on the Garden Peninsula and has a yacht basin and cottage there.

The Fredericksons trace the development of the ship passenger traffic on Lake Michigan and particularly in the Door County area. After Increase Claflin settled in Door County in 1835 the Peninsula began to draw permanent settlers and little communities developed along the shores.

The first scheduled passenger runs from Chicago along the west shore of Lake Michigan were only to Milwaukee, with occasional wild runs as far north as Green Bay (Fort Howard.) The Goodrich Line was one of the first lines to put Door County ports on its itinerary. Later the Hart Line and the Barry and the Hill lines served the area.

Started in 1855

The Goodrich Line got its start in 1855 when Capt. A. E. Goodrich purchased his first ship, the Huron, from the Ward Line. He started in 1856 carrying passengers and freight north from Chicago to Milwaukee and as far north as Two Rivers, with an occasional trip to Green Bay and Door County Ports. Later Goodrich acquired the Ogontz, the Comet, Wabash Valley, Lady Franklin, Seabird, Sunbeam, Planet, May Queen, Michigan and others and he built the Orion and put the Michigan's engines in her.

Capt. Goodrich had the Sheboygan built in Manitowoc in 1869. In that year 157 steamships and 74 sailing ships arrived in Sturgeon Bay. In 1872 the county logged 317 steamers and 50 sailing ships. Water traffic grew with the opening of the Sturgeon Bay ship canal in 1882, which made it possible for Green Bay traffic to avoid coasting around the tip of the Door Peninsula to sail south.

In 1885 the fare from Sturgeon Bay to Milwaukee was $5 and the fare to Chicago $6. At that time Nelson & Smith, in Sturgeon Bay, were offering immigrant rates from points in Europe to Chicago for $11 to $17.

Goodrich Ships

Among the Goodrich ships which visited Green Bay waters and which will be remembered by persons who recall the bay passenger traffic were the Corona and DePere, and later the Atlanta, Menominee, Oconto, Truesdell, Sheboygan, City of Ludington, Carolina, Chicago, Arizona, Wisconsin and Christopher Columbus.

The Goodrich Line became bankrupt in 1931 and suspended operations in 1933.

During the 1870s Captains Cliff B. Hart and his brother Henry W. Hart organized the Hart Steamboat Line. Their first steamer, the Welcome, ran from Green Bay to Sturgeon Bay, Menominee, Egg Harbor, Fish Creek, Ephraim, Sister Bay, Ellison Bay, Washington Island, Ford River, Escanaba, Nahma, Garden Bay, Fayette, Fairport, Summer Island, Thompson and Manistique.

They bought and rebuilt the C. W. Moore and in 1885 placed her on this run, making two trips a week, leaving Green Bay in the evening after the train arrived. The Welcome was put on a daily run from Green Bay to Sturgeon Bay and Menominee.

Business sliped after 1910 and by 1919 the last Hart boat, the Bon Ami had been sold.

At the turn of the century the Barry Line put the Empire State, the Badger State and the F&PM No. 1 on the Chicago to Menominee run, but the ships next made money and finally gave up. In the 1890s the Hill Line was started and made stops at Green Bay ports. The line owned the Cecelia Hill, Flora Hill and L. P. Hill, leased the City of Marquette. It went out of business after the Cecelia Hill burned in 1906 and the Flora Hill was crushed in the ice off Chicago in 1912.

By the end of World War I the automobile has spurred highway construction and developed such a private car traffic that the lake passenger lines were headed for extinction. A romantic era was closing. People of many small port communities had gone to the dock to see the steamer arrive as one of the most exciting regular occurrences of the community, the way their counterparts in inland villages had visited the railroad depot to see the trains arrive. Many of the communities served by the lake vessels never got a railroad, like Cedar River, Fox, Fayette, Fairport and Garth.

Many of the vessels had their names changed. The Goodrich Line's famed Carolina had four names in her career. She was christened the Hartford at launching in Philadelphia in 1892, became the Terry as a Quartermaster Corps ship in the Spanish American War, later was the Charles H. Hackley on Lake Michigan Run and finally became the Carolina. In 1935 the Carolina was sold by bankrupt Goodrich Line to Manitowoc Shipbuilding Co. for $3,000 and cut down to the water's edge and sold two years later to Captain John Roen of Sturgeon Bay who planned to make a stone barge of her. In 1950 the rest of her hull was cut up in the Roen Yard in Sturgeon Bay.

The sidewheel steamer Welcome, first ship in the Hart Line, was built in 1878 at Fort Howard by A. Johnson. She took an excursion from Sturgeon Bay to Ahnapee in 1879 and became the first ship of any size to pass through the new Sturgeon Bay Ship Canal between Lake Michigan and Green Bay. In 1893 she was made into a propeller and lengthened from 100 feet to 120 feet and widened from 19 to 25 feet. In 1900 she was converted into a lumber carrier and she grounded on rocks near Charlevoix in a heavy fog in 1903 and was lost.

The little Sailor Boy of the Hart Line (91 feet with 21 foot beam) will be remembered by many Bay de Noc area persons. She alternated with the Thistle and Bon Ami on runs between Green Bay Ports and ran out of Sturgeon Bay as far north as Escanaba, Gladstone and Nahma. After sale by the Hart Line she ran on Lake Superior for several years until she burned in 1924 and drifted ashore above Oscelola Point. The remains still can be seen on the west side of Portage Lake in the Keweenaw Waterway.

BIG SPLASH—What's left of a new water reservoir being test-filled for the first time in Oakland, Calif., is shown, foreground. An estimated 325,000 gallons of water cascaded down the street when the structure collapsed.

Later Goodrich acquired the Ogontz, the Comet, Wabash Valley, Lady Franklin, Seabird, Sunbeam, Planet, May Queen, Michigan and others and he built the Orion and put the Michigan's engines in her.

Capt. Goodrich had the Sheboygan built in Manitowoc in 1869. In that year 157 steamships and 74 sailing ships arrived in Sturgeon Bay. In 1872 the county logged 317 steamers and 50 sailing ships. Water traffic grew with the opening of the Sturgeon Bay ship canal in 1882, which made it possible for Green Bay traffic to avoid coasting around the tip of the Door Peninsula to sail south.

In 1885 the fare from Sturgeon Bay to Milwaukee was $5 and the fare to Chicago $6. At that time Nelson & Smith, in Sturgeon Bay, were offering immigrant rates from points in Europe to Chicago for $11 to $17.

Goodrich Ships

Among the Goodrich ships which visited Green Bay waters and which will be remembered by persons who recall the bay passenger traffic were the Corona and DePere, and later the Atlanta, Menominee, Oconto, Truesdell, Sheboygan, City of Ludington, Carolina, Chicago, Arizona, Wisconsin and Christopher Columbus.

The Goodrich Line became bankrupt in 1931 and suspended operations in 1933.

During the 1870s Captains Cliff B. Hart and his brother Henry W. Hart organized the Hart Steamboat Line. Their first steamer, the Welcome, ran from Green Bay to Sturgeon Bay, Menominee, Egg Harbor, Fish Creek, Ephraim, Sister Bay, Ellison Bay, Washington Island, Ford River, Escanaba, Nahma, Garden Bay, Fayette, Fairport, Summer Island, Thompson and Manistique.

They bought and rebuilt the C. W. Moore and in 1885 placed her on this run, making two trips a week, leaving Green Bay in the evening after the train arrived. The Welcome was put on a daily run from Green Bay to Sturgeon Bay and Menominee.

Business sliped after 1910 and by 1919 the last Hart boat, the Bon Ami had been sold.

At the turn of the century the Barry Line put the Empire State, the Badger State and the F&PM No. 1 on the Chicago to Menominee run, but the ships next made money and finally gave up. In the 1890s the Hill Line was started and made stops at Green Bay ports. The line owned the Cecelia Hill, Flora Hill and L. P. Hill, leased the City of Marquette. It went out of business after the Cecelia Hill burned in 1906 and the Flora Hill was crushed in the ice off Chicago in 1912.

By the end of World War I the automobile has spurred highway construction and developed such a private car traffic that the lake passenger lines were headed for extinction. A romantic era was closing. People of many small port communities had gone to the dock to see the steamer arrive as one of the most exciting regular occurrences of the community, the way their counterparts in inland villages had visited the railroad depot to see the trains arrive. Many of the communities served by the lake vessels never got a railroad, like Cedar River, Fox, Fayette, Fairport and Garth.

Many of the vessels had their names changed. The Goodrich Line's famed Carolina had four names in her career. She was christened the Hartford at launching in Philadelphia in 1892, became the Terry as a Quartermaster Corps ship in the Spanish American War, later was the Charles H. Hackley on Lake Michigan Run and finally became the Carolina. In 1935 the Carolina was sold by bankrupt Goodrich Line to Manitowoc Shipbuilding Co. for $3,000 and cut down to the water's edge and sold two years later to Captain John Roen of Sturgeon Bay who planned to make a stone barge of her. In 1950 the rest of her hull was cut up in the Roen Yard in Sturgeon Bay.

The sidewheel steamer Welcome, first ship in the Hart Line, was built in 1878 at Fort Howard by A. Johnson. She took an excursion from Sturgeon Bay to Ahnapee in 1879 and became the first ship of any size to pass through the new Sturgeon Bay Ship Canal between Lake Michigan and Green Bay. In 1893 she was made into a propeller and lengthened from 100 feet to 120 feet and widened from 19 to 25 feet. In 1900 she was converted into a lumber carrier and she grounded on rocks near Charlevoix in a heavy fog in 1903 and was lost.

The little Sailor Boy of the Hart Line (91 feet with 21 foot beam) will be remembered by many Bay de Noc area persons. She alternated with the Thistle and Bon Ami on runs between Green Bay Ports and ran out of Sturgeon Bay as far north as Escanaba, Gladstone and Nahma. After sale by the Hart Line she ran on Lake Superior for several years until she burned in 1924 and drifted ashore above Oscelola Point. The remains still can be seen on the west side of Portage Lake in the Keweenaw Waterway.

Recommend Study

We urge that Gov. George Romney appoint a special committee of laymen to work with the Michigan Tourist Council to study the effect of the Sunday closing on the sale of liquor on the tourist industry of the state.

We realize this will be a touchy subject for the Governor to handle, both for political and personal reasons, but we believe it is a matter that should be faced up to squarely for the good of the state, for economic reasons alone.

Michigan, especially Northern Michigan, is facing continually increasing competition from northern Wisconsin for the tourist dollar. If Northern Michigan is to be a summer and winter playground, Sunday sale should be permitted. The flow of business would enable many cafes, hotels and restaurants holding licenses to remain open on Sunday, thus better serving the public and our tourist guests, as well as returning needed revenue to the state.

★ ★ ★

A Sunday opening for sale of liquor would serve yet another purpose. It would make the Sunday tavern operators toe the line and report all sales aside from those of beer and low volume wines. It is an open secret that many taverns sell liquor on Sunday, regardless of the law against it. Why should legitimate operators be penalized?

This is not a moral problem. It is an economic problem. Michigan is losing important business, particularly weekend resort business, to other states. In this highly competitive race for the tourist dollar, why should Michigan penalize itself?

If this newspaper is to be criticized for taking this position, it might as well go a step further by suggesting that a state lottery and closely controlled, state-supervised gambling also should be seriously considered.

Editing Newspapers

Many newspaper readers wonder why newspapers do some things the way they do. So do other newspapers.

The Detroit Free Press recently printed a column by Drew Pearson which said that George Romney was a dead duck as a presidential possibility. Pearson in his own manner then proceeded to document Romney's troubles in Michigan.

The Free Press knew that most of Pearson's hit-and-run report was erroneous but it published it anyway. This may be a perverted view of "freedom of the press." Later the Free Press undertook to explain in an editorial that Pearson was up to his armpits in error about Governor Romney's record at Lansing.

"Like much lickety-split journalism," said the FP. "Pearson's assessment was inaccurate as to facts and out in left field with its conclusions.

"Pearson said mental health sympathizers were upset because Romney abolished the Mental Health Commission and that the state's mental institutions are now jampacked once again. Romney didn't abolish the commission; that was done by the Legislature . . . and it is not accurate that the institutions have again become jampacked. In the past year the population has decreased about 400 continuing a 7-year trend.

★ ★ ★

"Pearson said higher education supporters were up in arms because Romney has provided no money for planning new college and university facilities. This is not true. Romney proposed an 'immediate effect' bill that provides some $850,000 for planning new higher education buildings. The Legislature approved. Romney also sought and obtained $22.5 million for higher education buildings during the current year.

"Pearson said Romney has had even more trouble with Republican legislators than Democratic governors who preceded him. This, too, is not accurate . . . etc."

The Doctor Says:

Plastic Gives Voice To Speechless

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

If you have ever tried to call out in the course of a nightmare and couldn't shout above a whisper, you can understand the nightmare of a permanent loss of voice.

Paralysis of the vocal cord on one side may occur from various causes, but the result is an inability to make yourself heard.

Until recently the treatment of this condition has been unsatisfactory. Efforts have been made to strengthen or tighten the loose cord by injecting a foreign substance into it that will be tolerated by the tissues, will not set up an inflammatory reaction and will not disappear from the tissues by absorption.

Over 50 years ago a physician in Germany used paraffin for this purpose. The idea was good, but the foreign substance he used was not. In the intervening years, injectable emulsions were made of cartilage particles or bone dust mixed with glycerine or otherwise treated to give them the consistency of toothpaste. These worked better than the paraffin.

The metal tantalum, after being pulverized, was also tried but none of these have given such good results as are being obtained by Dr. Robert B. Lewy, a well-known Chicago surgeon. He uses a paste made from a plastic called Teflon, the same substance that is now used to line frying pans and for a variety of other purposes. This is a tetrafluorethylene polymer which is chemically the most inert plastic yet produced.

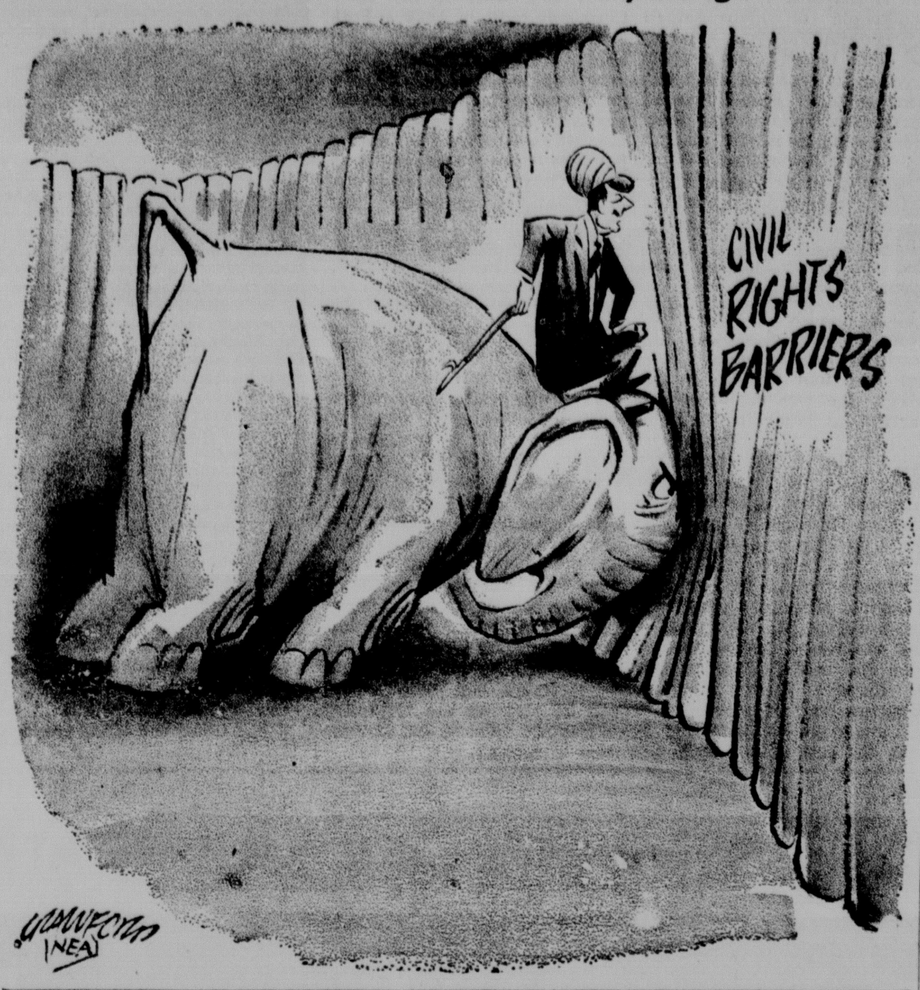

Dr. Lewy explained that vocal sound is possible only when there is a tension or tightening in both the right and left vocal cords while the exhaled air is passing between them. After the mixture is injected into the paralyzed cord the glycerin in the mixture is absorbed, but the Teflon remains and gives solid support to the cord. Although the cord is still paralyzed, enough of the plastic is injected to make the cord about one and one-half times its normal thickness and this is sufficient to act with the nonparalyzed cord on the opposite side to produce normal voice sounds.

The results have been dramatically shown by making tape recordings of the voice before and after the operation. This operation requires only 10 or 15 minutes and is done under local anesthesia. Those who have needed the operation have been enthusiastic about the results.

Q—Please explain what is meant by the terms G-U and L-S spine?

A—A G-U disorder is a disturbance of the genitourinary tract. This covers a host of conditions ranging from mild to serious. The L-S spine is the lumbosacral or lower spine

Now We've Seen Everything

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A new kind of advocate for passage of a strong civil rights bill by Congress has appeared on the capital scene.

He is Jerome Smith, a 24-year-old Negro from New Orleans, who is a field secretary and organizer for CORE—the Committee on Racial Equality—and the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

He was one of the original freedom riders in the South. He has been arrested 12 or 13 times, he says, imprisoned three months in Mississippi and a month in Louisiana for breach of the peace.

Young Smith is appearing in Washington under the sponsorship of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights.

This is a federation of 65 church, labor union and Negro organizations which have pooled efforts to lobby for stronger legislation than the moderate Kennedy bill.

★ ★ ★

Smith's assignment is to call on congressmen to let them see what a young Negro leader looks like, how he talks, what he is thinking. But he says he has been having trouble seeing anyone. Congressmen are so busy.

He is a tall, slender, clean-cut young Negro. He wears blue denims, a blue cotton shirt open at the collar and tieless to show a clean white cotton undershirt.

"This is the uniform of the cotton fields," he says simply. "I'm part of the cheap labor of the South."

He has worked on the docks and helped his father, who is an auto body repairman in New Orleans.

★ ★ ★

They have trained him almost too well. His phrases are too glib from repetition. His vocabulary and English are good, but he uses too many big words. His sincerity and devotion, however, come through.

It is not pleasant to hear what he has to say, and it may be more shocking to read. But it is worth hearing and reading because it brings you right up against what the Negro masses in America are being told by their own people in this period of internal strife and confusion.

"I'm appalled by the controversy over the civil rights bill," he begins. "When government has a conflict within itself, it has forgotten about the country and the people. The Negro will lose faith in his government if this goes on.

"It's suicide to think that the President's bill will suffice for the Negro in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. What was good yesterday is not good enough for today. All America must go for broke to make sure we get a broad bill.

★ ★ ★

"I don't believe the President understands the passion of the people in the street. My freedom does not reside in President Kennedy but in myself. He's not after what I'm after. My concern is not whether the President gets re-elected.

"I put thumbs down on moderation. I can't think in terms of moderation while police beat us over the head and dogs rip up real flesh. But I'm plain enough to know that bitterness won't help. I must use my energies to bring about creative change.

"I am nonviolent. But that doesn't represent the attitude of the masses of people in the country.

"Nonviolence is not a constant thing. This is not consistent with human nature. They will finally react out of sheer frustration. The mood of the world is bringing about change.

"Every Negro in America is active. This is nothing new. It has been going on since the first Negroes came to America in chains."

Dividends Head For New Highs

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — This is going to be the best year yet for the pocketbooks of the nation's stockholders.

Dollar totals of dividend payments, already well ahead of last year, are sure to hit a new record as the yearend outlays sweeten the take.

And lucky holders of favored issues that have shot up on the stock exchanges will have sizable capital gains if they cash in, or paper profits if they hold on.

Corporate earnings seem likely to set a record high. They're running well ahead of last year and the present quarter prospects are good. Even profit margins, pinched since 1957, are on average back to the level of 5 per cent of the sales dollar.

Many companies seem in the mood to pass along the good times to the shareholders. General Motors' decision to pay out more than a billion in dividends this year, some $424 million of that a yearend bonus, is the biggest but not the only example. Many other companies are expected to extend seasons greetings in a like, if a bit more modest, manner.

For one thing, many corporations have ample cash on hand—GM has $2 billion in cash or marketable securities. They've been able to take care of more growth financing by themselves without going to the money markets. So yearend dividends can be paid without embarrassing the company treasurer's standing at the bank.

The outflow of dividends will help many small stockholders in planning their own yearend spending. Many look upon an added payment as an extra goodie to be spent at once. And retailers won't frown on that.

Among those rejoicing over the steady growth count is the federal tax collector. He gets around 52 per cent of the increase in corporate profits, and then he will be on hand when the individual stockholders figure up their total incomes for 1963.

Fish Industry Guidelines Set

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney has announcel a three-point program "to protect the public health and relieve damage to the Michigan fishing industry caused by recent incidents of botulism poisoning."

He said the three points were worked out by a special committee he created Thursday. He emphasized that fresh, frozen and commercially canned fish "are not under suspicion and can be consumed without fear."

The points:

--Establishment of new smoked fish processing standards, requiring freezing of all smoked fish immediately after processing.

--Requesting processors, distributors and retailers to destroy or re-process any smoked fish which were caught or smoked within the Great Lakes area.

--Confiscating all smoked fish inventories which do not meet the new processing standards and are not voluntarily destroyed or re-processed.

"Failure to process and handle smoked fish according to the new guidelines will result in the confiscation of the product by the Foods and Standards Division of the State Agriculture Department," said Romney.

These worked better than the paraffin.

The metal tantalum, after being pulverized, was also tried but none of these have given such good results as are being obtained by Dr. Robert B. Lewy, a well-known Chicago surgeon. He uses a paste made from a plastic called Teflon, the same substance that is now used to line frying pans and for a variety of other purposes. This is a tetrafluorethylene polymer which is chemically the most inert plastic yet produced.

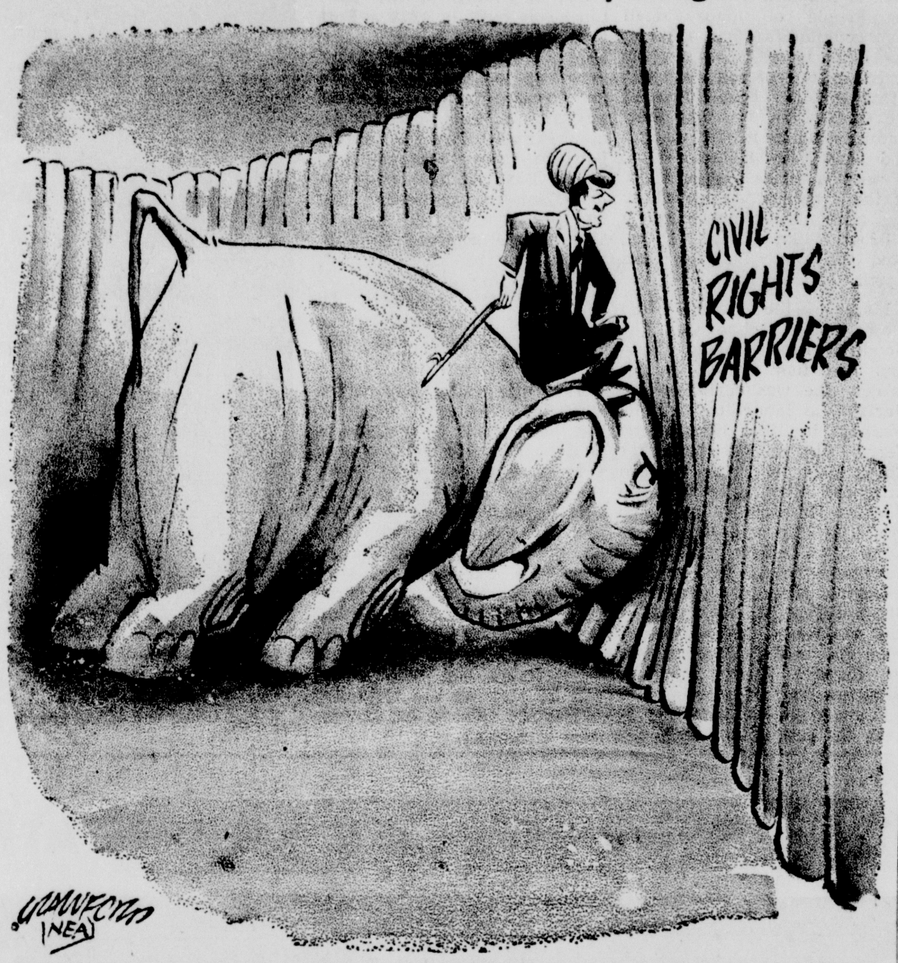

Dr. Lewy explained that vocal sound is possible only when there is a tension or tightening in both the right and left vocal cords while the exhaled air is passing between them. After the mixture is injected into the paralyzed cord the glycerin in the mixture is absorbed, but the Teflon remains and gives solid support to the cord. Although the cord is still paralyzed, enough of the plastic is injected to make the cord about one and one-half times its normal thickness and this is sufficient to act with the nonparalyzed cord on the opposite side to produce normal voice sounds.

The results have been dramatically shown by making tape recordings of the voice before and after the operation. This operation requires only 10 or 15 minutes and is done under local anesthesia. Those who have needed the operation have been enthusiastic about the results.

Q—Please explain what is meant by the terms G-U and L-S spine?

A—A G-U disorder is a disturbance of the genitourinary tract. This covers a host of conditions ranging from mild to serious. The L-S spine is the lumbosacral or lower spine

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A new kind of advocate for passage of a strong civil rights bill by Congress has appeared on the capital scene.

He is Jerome Smith, a 24-year-old Negro from New Orleans, who is a field secretary and organizer for CORE—the Committee on Racial Equality —and the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

He was one of the original freedom riders in the South. He has been arrested 12 or 13 times, he says, imprisoned three months in Mississippi and a month in Louisiana for breach of the peace.

Young Smith is appearing in Washington under the sponsorship of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights.

This is a federation of 65 church, labor union and Negro organizations which have pooled efforts to lobby for stronger legislation than the moderate Kennedy bill.

★ ★ ★

Smith's assignment is to call on congressmen to let them see what a young Negro leader looks like, how he talks, what he is thinking. But he says he has been having trouble seeing anyone. Congressmen are so busy.

He is a tall, slender, clean-cut young Negro. He wears blue denims, a blue cotton shirt open at the collar and tieless to show a clean white cotton undershirt.

"This is the uniform of the cotton fields," he says simply. "I'm part of the cheap labor of the South."

He has worked on the docks and helped his father, who is an auto body repairman in New Orleans.

★ ★ ★

They have trained him almost too well. His phrases are too glib from repetition. His vocabulary and English are good, but he uses too many big words. His sincerity and devotion, however, come through.

It is not pleasant to hear what he has to say, and it may be more shocking to read. But it is worth hearing and reading because it brings you right up against what the Negro masses in America are being told by their own people in this period of internal strife and confusion.

"I'm appalled by the controversy over the civil rights bill," he begins. "When government has a conflict within itself, it has forgotten about the country and the people. The Negro will lose faith in his government if this goes on.

"It's suicide to think that the President's bill will suffice for the Negro in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. What was good yesterday is not good enough for today. All America must go for broke to make sure we get a broad bill.

★ ★ ★

"I don't believe the President understands the passion of the people in the street. My freedom does not reside in President Kennedy but in myself. He's not after what I'm after. My concern is not whether the President gets re-elected.

"I put thumbs down on moderation. I can't think in terms of moderation while police beat us over the head and dogs rip up real flesh. But I'm plain enough to know that bitterness won't help. I must use my energies to bring about creative change.

"I am nonviolent. But that doesn't represent the attitude of the masses of people in the country.

"Nonviolence is not a constant thing. This is not consistent with human nature. They will finally react out of sheer frustration. The mood of the world is bringing about change.

"Every Negro in America is active. This is nothing new. It has been going on since the first Negroes came to America in chains."

Dividends Head For New Highs

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — This is going to be the best year yet for the pocketbooks of the nation's stockholders.

Dollar totals of dividend payments, already well ahead of last year, are sure to hit a new record as the yearend outlays sweeten the take.

And lucky holders of favored issues that have shot up on the stock exchanges will have sizable capital gains if they cash in, or paper profits if they hold on.

Corporate earnings seem likely to set a record high. They're running well ahead of last year and the present quarter prospects are good. Even profit margins, pinched since 1957, are on average back to the level of 5 per cent of the sales dollar.

Many companies seem in the mood to pass along the good times to the shareholders. General Motors' decision to pay out more than a billion in dividends this year, some $424 million of that a yearend bonus, is the biggest but not the only example. Many other companies are expected to extend seasons greetings in a like, if a bit more modest, manner.

For one thing, many corporations have ample cash on hand —GM has $2 billion in cash or marketable securities. They've been able to take care of more growth financing by themselves without going to the money markets. So yearend dividends can be paid without embarrassing the company treasurer's standing at the bank.

The outflow of dividends will help many small stockholders in planning their own yearend spending. Many look upon an added payment as an extra goodie to be spent at once. And retailers won't frown on that.

Among those rejoicing over the steady growth count is the federal tax collector. He gets around 52 per cent of the increase in corporate profits, and then he will be on hand when the individual stockholders figure up their total incomes for 1963.

Fish Industry Guidelines Set

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney has announcel a three-point program "to protect the public health and relieve damage to the Michigan fishing industry caused by recent incidents of botulism poisoning."

He said the three points were worked out by a special committee he created Thursday. He emphasized that fresh, frozen and commercially canned fish "are not under suspicion and can be consumed without fear."

The points:

--Establishment of new smoked fish processing standards, requiring freezing of all smoked fish immediately after processing.

--Requesting processors, distributors and retailers to destroy or re-process any smoked fish which were caught or smoked within the Great Lakes area.

--Confiscating all smoked fish inventories which do not meet the new processing standards and are not voluntarily destroyed or re-processed.

"Failure to process and handle smoked fish according to the new guidelines will result in the confiscation of the product by the Foods and Standards Division of the State Agriculture Department," said Romney.

Rise Of Filth Told To Clubs

Dirt for money's sake, pornography and salacious books available on almost any newsstand—this is the rise of filth that threatens America with moral degradation and decay.

A message of warning and a method of dealing with the traffic in "dirty" books and pictures was given the Escanaba Rotary Club by Wayne St. Pierre at the club's meeting Tuesday noon at the House of Ludington. St. Pierre, Catholic Social Services case worker, also talked to the Kiwanis Club Monday.

A moving picture on the subject — "Deliver Us From Evil"—was shown with the assistance of Richard Meissner, followed by St. Pierre's comments on the local situation. They were introduced by Art Slaughter of the Rotary Club's program committee.

St. Pierre displayed magazines purchased here which depicted nudity, incitement to sexuality, lust and crime. Purpose of the programs to the service clubs, he said, was to make the people of the community aware of the situation so they might take action against obscenity.

A public aroused and willing to invoke the law can control the publishers and dealers who believe in "dirt for money's sake," it was pointed out.

Robert Mosenfelder, Rotary Club president, conducted the meeting.

Tri-State Aid Plan Proposed

Six U. S. Senators have urged President Kennedy to create a Federal-State regional commission to coordinate and implement economic development in the northern areas of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

In a letter to the President, the Senators asked him to initiate such a program by calling a White House meeting of Cabinet members and agency heads administering economic development programs, together with the Governors and the Senators from the three States.

Senators making the proposal were Hubert H. Humphrey and Eugene J. McCarthy (D., Minn.); Pat McNamara and Philip A. Hart (D., Mich.) and William Proxmire and Gaylord Nelson (D., Wis.).

The Senators noted that the northern areas of their States have suffered persistent and substantial unemployment, with the jobless rate usually about twice the national average.

"This situation has continued despite valiant efforts by the Federal government, State agencies and local communities," the Senators said in a statement.

"We have suggested to the President that we believe these efforts could be strengthened and improvd through better coordination and cooperation.

"Since the northern areas of our States have much in common in the way of economic and physical characteristics, our proposal calls for attacking the problems on a regional basis.

"We are not interested in just another study of the problems. What we want, and what we think the regional approach will provide, is the development of a comprehensive action plan for the entire region."

"The Federal government has made a significant contribution through enactment of such programs as the Area Redevelopment Administration, Accelerated Public Works, manpower retraining and Rural Areas Development.

"Further, the States through their development agencies, and local communities and private organizations have devoted great effort to these problems.

"Coordination on a region-wide basis, leading to an action plan that can be implemented by all, can produce the kind of lasting results that these areas need."

AUTOMOBILES AND THE COMMON MARKET

	1960	1965	1970
Belgium-Luxembourg	810,000	1,350,000	2,300,000
France	5,545,000	9,150,000	13,900,000

Italy	1,995,000	4,300,000	8,900,000
Netherlands	540,000	900,000	1,600,000

EUROPE ON WHEELS—The European Common Market—Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Germany, Italy and the Netherlands—today produces about one-third of all the motor vehicles in the world. (The United States makes about 50 per cent.) The market is also the world's top exporter of vehicles. As Newschart above shows, ownership of cars by the 200-odd million citizens of the six nations is expected to climb from 13.5 million in 1960 to 40.5 million in 1970. Europe still has a long way to go, however. U.S. motor vehicle registrations today total around 70 million. In 1960, ratio of cars to population in Europe was still only equivalent to the U.S. position in 1920.

Bridge Traffic Hits New High

Mackinac Bridge revenues for the month of October set an all time high record with an increase of 14.6 per cent over October of 1962, according to Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority. Traffic was up 16 per cent over October of a year ago.

"A combination of unseasonably mild weather, improved economic conditions and the new freeways from the southern counties are helping bridge traffic," said Brown.

Bridge crossings for the month totaled 89,212 compared with 76,876 vehicles of a year ago. Revenues totaled $395,843, an increase over $345,291 of a year ago.

October traffic was 60 per cent over October of 1957, the last month of ferry operation.

For the first 10 months of 1963, traffic is up 4.9 per cent and revenues are up 4.2 per cent, $4,647,458 compared with $4,458,498. Earnings for 1963 are expected to cover interest and other requirements 1.25 times.

Warning Strike Staged In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Nearly two million public service workers staged a one-day warning strike in France today, cutting the electric supply, mail deliveries and garbage collection.

Many teachers also struck, closing a number of public schools.

The workers claim they are caught in a wage-price squeeze caused by the government's antiinflation campaign launched last September. The government has offered to grant certain wage adjustments but has refused to meet all union demands.

Arrange Events For Book Week

"Three cheers for book!" is the slogan for the 1963 National Children's Book Week celebration Nov. 10-16, the 45th annual celebration of an eevnt sponsored by the Children's Book Council.

For one week concentration is placed on children's books, not because they are not thought of the rest of the year but just as a refresher, a reminder of what children's books can mean, what good books there are, what old books may have been forgotten and what new books have recently been added. Perhaps, most of all it is to remind us of what fun reading can be, said Harry Courtright, director, Carnegie Public Library.

The Escanaba Public Library will join in the celebration in a new way, with a week long exhibit of new books which are available for boys and girls. Classes from local schools have been invited to visit the library during the week long celebration Story hours will be held and classes in how to use the library will acquaint students with the library and its facilities.

The first issue of "Danny Deer Reports", a monthly children's newsletter written primarily by children, is now available. Exhibits of student art work will be on display and children's records will be played.

The celebration will be climaxed by an open house on the weekend. On Saturday, Nov. 16, open house will be for all boys and girls. At 10 a. m. a story hour will be held. At 1 p. m. a half hour film showing will take place. Three Walt Disney cartoons, Chief Ronald, The Legend of Coyote Rock, and Lonesome Ghosts will be shown. The films will be shown a second time at 2 to allow a second group of youngsters to enpoy the films.

"It is hoped parents will take this opportunity to bring their children to the Library to see the new books and take part in the festivities," said Mrs. Kenneth Jensen, children's librarian.

Also on Saturday a half-hour teen-book discussion will take place on WLST radio. The program will be aired at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Mary Ellen Halcli, reference librarian, will moderate and Sandra Marshall, Charles Bonamer, Ann Worth and Nelson Dahl will discuss the book, Teen-Age Tyranny.

Fly The Flag, Legion Urges

Veterans Day is Monday, Nov. 11, and the American Legion is asking that the flag be displayed at every home, business and industrial firm across the nation.

In Escanaba Leland Thompson, commander of Cloverland Post No. 82, said that with the American flag displayed in front of every home and business address "we can make this Veterans Day and unforgettable demonstration of Americanism, and at the same time show our community's appreciation for all who answered our country's cal to arms for the preservation of our priceless heritage."

No American flag is ever obsolete, even if it bear fewer than 50 stars in the field of blue. Regardless of age, as long as the flag is in good condition, it should be displayed on all appropriate occasions.

He further urged homes which do not have a flag to obtain one, not only for display on Veterans Day but also on all patriotic holidays.

Persons with questions regarding correct display of the flag should contact Roy Baldwin, 1811 Grand Ave., chairman of the Legion's Americanism Committee. His number is ST6-2647.

Commander Thompson invited the public to attend the ceremony commemorating the end of World War II, which will be held at Ludington and 11th St. at 11 a. m. Monday. The ceremony is sponsored by the four local veterans organizations — Disabled American Veterans, Amvets, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

Chips And Splinters

Contributions To Chips Welcomed

An Escanaba mother of a young Navy seaman got the thrill of a lifetime yesterday afternoon when her son called her from aboard the USS Forrest Royal, a destroyer, in the Mediterranean Sea off Cannes on the French Riviera to say he'd be home during the Christmas holidays and to wish his Dad a happy birthday.

The Navy accomplished this by two-way ship-to-shore radio relayed by telephone to Escanaba, Mich.

The mother, Mrs. Clovis C. Colvin, 509 S. 14th St., said she was almost breathless when the surprise call came through at 3:10 p. m., yesterday. Dad was at work and missed the birthday call, but he certainly appreciates the effort on the part of son John who has been in the Navy for a little over a year.

Representatives from other social agencies, schools, courts, health departments, clergy and county boards have been invited to attend the luncheon meeting which will begin at noon.

A native of Menominee, Dr. Kelly received his bachelors' degree and doctor of medicine degree from Marquette University in Milwaukee. He completed his internship in St. Francis Hospital, Evanston, in 1935. He was director of the Lansing Children's Center from 1939 to 1942, then entered the U. S. Army and served to 1946 as division neuro-psychiatrist in combat.

Rise Of Filth Told To Clubs

Dirt for money's sake, pornography and salacious books available on almost any newsstand—this is the rise of filth that threatens America with moral degradation and decay.

A message of warning and a method of dealing with the traffic in "dirty" books and pictures was given the Escanaba Rotary Club by Wayne St. Pierre at the club's meeting Tuesday noon at the House of Ludington. St. Pierre, Catholic Social Services case worker, also talked to the Kiwanis Club Monday.

A moving picture on the subject — "Deliver Us From Evil"—was shown with the assistance of Richard Meissner, followed by St. Pierre's comments on the local situation. They were introduced by Art Slaughter of the Rotary Club's program committee.

St. Pierre displayed magazines purchased here which depicted nudity, incitement to sexuality, lust and crime. Purpose of the programs to the service clubs, he said, was to make the people of the community aware of the situation so they might take action against obscenity.

A public aroused and willing to invoke the law can control the publishers and dealers who believe in "dirt for money's sake," it was pointed out.

Robert Mosenfelder, Rotary Club president, conducted the meeting.

Tri-State Aid Plan Proposed

Six U. S. Senators have urged President Kennedy to create a Federal-State regional commission to coordinate and implement economic development in the northern areas of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

In a letter to the President, the Senators asked him to initiate such a program by calling a White House meeting of Cabinet members and agency heads administering economic development programs, together with the Governors and the Senators from the three States.

Senators making the proposal were Hubert H. Humphrey and Eugene J. McCarthy (D., Minn.); Pat McNamara and Philip A. Hart (D., Mich.) and William Proxmire and Gaylord Nelson (D., Wis.).

The Senators noted that the northern areas of their States have suffered persistent and substantial unemployment, with the jobless rate usually about twice the national average.

"This situation has continued despite valiant efforts by the Federal government, State agencies and local communities," the Senators said in a statement.

"We have suggested to the President that we believe these efforts could be strengthened and improvd through better coordination and cooperation.

"Since the northern areas of our States have much in common in the way of economic and physical characteristics, our proposal calls for attacking the problems on a regional basis.

"We are not interested in just another study of the problems. What we want, and what we think the regional approach will provide, is the development of a comprehensive action plan for the entire region."

"The Federal government has made a significant contribution through enactment of such programs as the Area Redevelopment Administration, Accelerated Public Works, manpower retraining and Rural Areas Development.

"Further, the States through their development agencies, and local communities and private organizations have devoted great effort to these problems.

"Coordination on a region-wide basis, leading to an action plan that can be implemented by all, can produce the kind of lasting results that these areas need."

AUTOMOBILES AND THE COMMON MARKET

	1960	1965	1970
Belgium-Luxembourg	810,000	1,350,000	2,300,000
France	5,545,000	9,150,000	13,900,000

EUROPE ON WHEELS—The European Common Market—Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Germany, Italy and the Netherlands—today produces about one-third of all the motor vehicles in the world. (The United States makes about 50 per cent.) The market is also the world's top exporter of vehicles. As Newschart above shows, ownership of cars by the 200-odd million citizens of the six nations is expected to climb from 13.5 million in 1960 to 40.5 million in 1970. Europe still has a long way to go, however. U.S. motor vehicle registrations today total around 70 million. In 1960, ratio of cars to population in Europe was still only equivalent to the U.S. position in 1920.

Bridge Traffic Hits New High

Mackinac Bridge revenues for the month of October set an all time high record with an increase of 14.6 per cent over October of 1962, according to Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority. Traffic was up 16 per cent over October of a year ago.

"A combination of unseasonably mild weather, improved economic conditions and the new freeways from the southern counties are helping bridge traffic," said Brown.

Bridge crossings for the month totaled 89,212 compared with 76,876 vehicles of a year ago. Revenues totaled $595,843, an increase over $345,291 of a year ago.

October traffic was 60 per cent over October of 1957, the last month of ferry operation.

For the first 10 months of 1963, traffic is up 4.9 per cent and revenues are up 4.2 per cent, $4,647,458 compared with $4,458,498. Earnings for 1963 are expected to cover interest and other requirements 1.25 times.

Warning Strike Staged In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Nearly two million public service workers staged a one-day warning strike in France today, cutting the electric supply, mail deliveries and garbage collection.

Many teachers also struck, closing a number of public schools.

The workers claim they are caught in a wage-price squeeze caused by the government's antiinflation campaign launched last September. The government has offered to grant certain wage adjustments but has refused to meet all union demands.

Arrange Events For Book Week

"Three cheers for book!" is the slogan for the 1963 National Children's Book Week celebration Nov. 10-16, the 45th annual celebration of an eevnt sponsored by the Children's Book Council.

For one week concentration is placed on children's books, not because they are not thought of the rest of the year but just as a refresher, a reminder of what children's books can mean, what good books there are, what old books may have been forgotten and what new books have recently been added. Perhaps, most of all it is to remind us of what fun reading can be, said Harry Courtright, director, Carnegie Public Library.

The Escanaba Public Library will join in the celebration in a new way, with a week long exhibit of new books which are available for boys and girls. Classes from local schools have been invited to visit the library during the week long celebration Story hours will be held and classes in how to use the library will acquaint students with the library and its facilities.

The first issue of "Danny Deer Reports", a monthly children's newsletter written primarily by children, is now available. Exhibits of student art work will be on display and children's records will be played.

The celebration will be climaxed by an open house on the weekend. On Saturday, Nov. 16, open house will be for all boys and girls. At 10 a. m. a story hour will be held. At 1 p. m. a half hour film showing will take place. Three Walt Disney cartoons, Chief Ronald, The Legend of Coyote Rock, and Lonesome Ghosts will be shown. The films will be shown a second time at 2 to allow a second group of youngsters to enpoy the films.

"It is hoped parents will take this opportunity to bring their children to the Library to see the new books and take part in the festivities," said Mrs. Kenneth Jensen, children's librarian.

Also on Saturday a half-hour teen-book discussion will take place on WLST radio. The program will be aired at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Mary Ellen Halcli, reference librarian, will moderate and Sandra Marshall, Charles Bonamer, Ann Worth and Nelson Dahl will discuss the book, Teen-Age Tyranny.

Fly The Flag, Legion Urges

Veterans Day is Monday, Nov. 11, and the American Legion is asking that the flag be displayed at every home, business and industrial firm across the nation.

In Escanaba Leland Thompson, commander of Cloverland Post No. 82, said that with the American flag displayed in front of every home and business address "we can make this Veterans Day and unforgettable demonstration of Americanism, and at the same time show our community's appreciation for all who answered our country's cal to arms for the preservation of our priceless heritage."

No American flag is ever obsolete, even if it bear fewer than 50 stars in the field of blue. Regardless of age, as long as the flag is in good condition, it should be displayed on all appropriate occasions.

He further urged homes which do not have a flag to obtain one, not only for display on Veterans Day but also on all patriotic holidays.

Persons with questions regarding correct display of the flag should contact Roy Baldwin, 1811 Grand Ave., chairman of the Legion's Americanism Committee. His number is ST6-2647.

Commander Thompson invited the public to attend the ceremony commemorating the end of World War II, which will be held at Ludington and 11th St. at 11 a. m. Monday. The ceremony is sponsored by the four local veterans organizations — Disabled American Veterans, Amvets, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

Chips And Splinters

Contributions To Chips Welcomed

An Escanaba mother of a young Navy seaman got the thrill of a lifetime yesterday afternoon when her son called her from aboard the USS Forrest Royal, a destroyer, in the Mediterranean Sea off Cannes on the French Riviera to say he'd be home during the Christmas holidays and to wish his Dad a happy birthday.

The Navy accomplished this by two-way ship-to-shore radio relayed by telephone to Escanaba, Mich.

The mother, Mrs. Clovis C. Colvin, 509 S. 14th St., said she was almost breathless when the surprise call came through at 3:10 p. m., yesterday. Dad was at work and missed the birthday call, but he certainly appreciates the effort on the part of son John who has been in the Navy for a little over a year.

NEW CHEVELLE!
BY CHEVROLET

The kind of handling ease you'd expect in a smaller car. Come on down and drive it.

The kind of comfort you'd expect in a large interior. Come on down and sit in it.

Only a car that looks as good as this could come between Chevrolet and Chevy II. Come on down and stare at it.

New Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses*! And if that makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.

You've also got a roomy car here. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park.

With its Full Coil suspension, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions bumps.

And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too.

Sound good? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price!

Court Scolds Parole Board

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court Monday scolded the State Parole Board for admitting "judicially shocking" evidence in a parole violation case, and ordered the convict freeed.

"By no construction of the phrase known to the law," said the unanimous decision, was Woodraw Vaughan given the opportunity to face his accusers.

"What was subsequently introduced as 'evidence' is judicially shocking and bears no resemblance to admissible testimony," said the decision.

Vaughan was sent to Marquette branch prison on a sentence of armed robbery handed down in Detroit in 1956. He was paroled to St. Louis to stand trial for robbery there in 1961, and was sentenced to two years.

He was released from the Missouri State Prison in 1962, and five months later was picked up by Michigan authorities in St. Louis on charges of violating his parole on several grounds, among them changing his place of residence without permission.

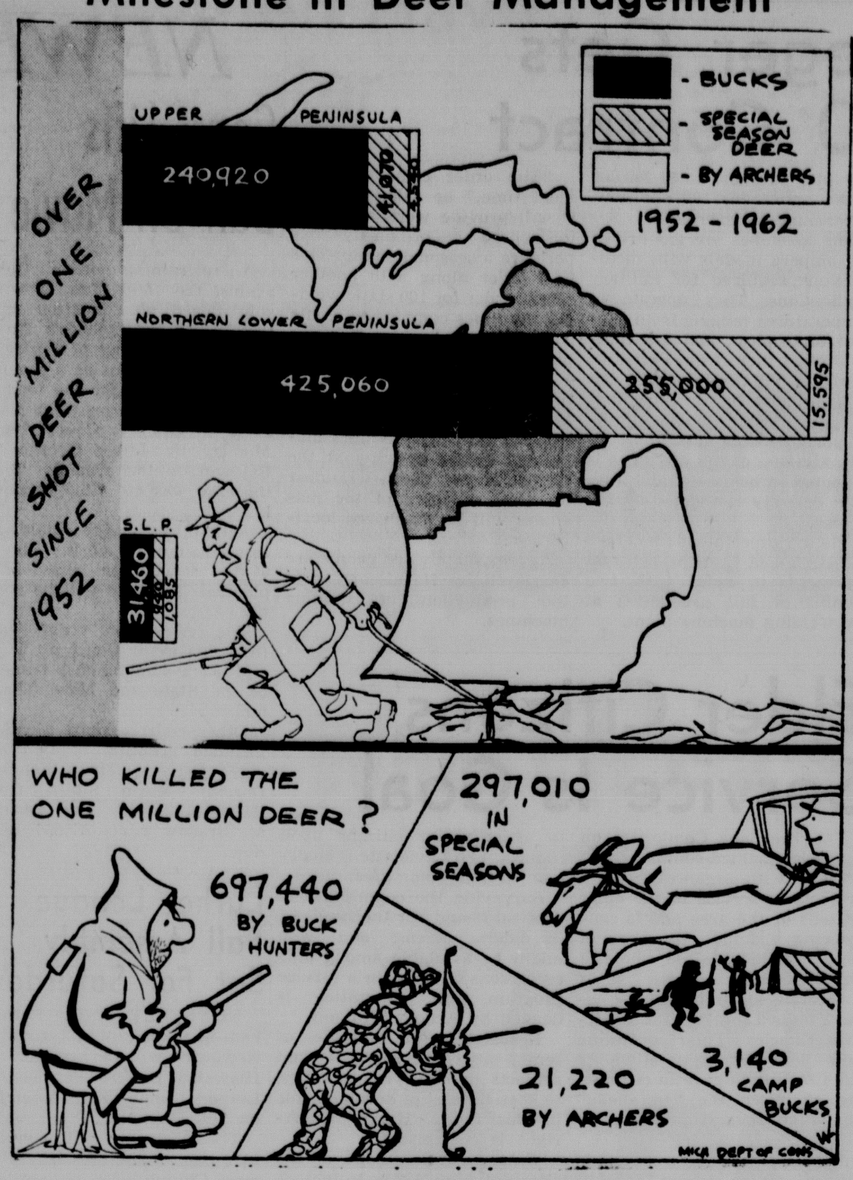

The court said Michigan authorities knew of the Missouri parole plan for Vaughan under which he was to live with relatives in St. Louis, and that "had Michigan not approved it, ample time was afforded to advise Vaughan and the Missouri authorities."

Felony Upheld

LANSING (AP) — Even though the name he signed to the check was his own, Clyde C. Sout's confinement, ordered by Detroit Recorder's Court in 1931, was valid, the Supreme Court held Monday. Stout, an inmate of Ionia State Hospital, had a legal paper issued against a hospital official demanding his freedom on grounds the court order committing him was illegal. He was charged with forgery of a $43.25 draft made out to a company, which he ensored. Stout claimed that because he signed his own name, it was not a felony.

Milestone in Deer Management

BACK IN 1952, Michigan had its first large-scale special deer season; more than 100,000 antlerless whitetails were killed in the northern lower peninsula. Even before the final shot was fired that year, many people were talking about the herd being "exterminated." Some are still voicing scepticism. Say what they will, this state has reached a new milestone in deer management under the Conservation Department's program of regular and special seasons. Sometime last November, a Michigan hunter killed the one-millionth deer to be legally taken since the start of the 1952 season. Over the last 11 years in which antlerless deer hunting has been extended to most of the upper peninsula, sportsmen have harvested an average of almost 93,000 whitetails annually—from a herd that critics said was being "shot off" by special seasons. Looking ahead, hunters can take even more deer each fall without hurting the future of their sport. During the 1963 firearm season, for example, they can safely harvest 125,000 bucks, does, and fawns.

Tourists Lured By Old Wood

HOLBROOK, Ariz. (AP) — For some, a visit to the nation's newest national park is a petrifying experience.

They find that by picking up souvenirs which would have cost small change in curio shops outside the park, they must pay fines up to $25.

So far this year, more than 100 persons have been cited for carrying off chips and logs from the Petrified Forest in northeastern Arizona. Although a national monument since 1906, the forest acquired park status only last Dec. 8.

Visitors entering the park from busy U. S. 66 make their first stop at the new $1.5 million park headquarters complex, which includes a privately operated gift shop. Only polished wood is sold here, with small pieces costing 50 cents to $1. A set of bookends will run $30.

Once inside the park the tourist finds himself surrounded by the largest concentration of petrified logs in the world. The logs, ranging up to 160 feet, won't fit in pockets or car trunks.

Chips And Chunks

However, millions of rough chips and small chunks lying on all sides beckon dishonest spirits.

Occasionally there is an attempt at wholesale theft in order to make a profit out of the 180 - million - year - old wood, valued up to $40 a pound.

"It isn't the big commercial thieves that hurt so much," explains Chief Ranger R. H. Viklund. "It's the little chips that are hauled off day by day. We can't grow any more to replace it."

In the first seven months of 1963, citations went to 95 persons who paid $1,770 in fines of $15 to $25 each. Some 1,432 pounds of petrified wood was collected in searches of 365 cars.

Searches of cars have turned up wood concealed in pillow cases, under car hoods, in tissue boxes and in hubcaps. One little boy reminded a ranger he hadn't look inside a bean pot. The ranger lifted the lid and found the contraband.

Another man professed astonishment when a 45-pound log was found in his car trunk. The violator said his 4-year-old son must have put it there.

Many tourists who pick up the illegal souvenirs change their minds when they see the checkout gate loom ahead.

Park employes maintain a quarter-mile clear strip along the road leading to the exit. Some 1,900 pounds of wood, thrown from cars approaching the gate, was collected during one month this past summer.

Mail It Back

Conscience is a main force in preserving the park. Rangers are reminded of this daily as packages arrive from around the nation.

Supt. Charles E. Humberger says most have no return address, but simply contain petrified wood weighing from a few ounces to 35 pounds. Since they usually come first class mail, it may cost the sender a good sum to relieve his conscience.

Although petrified wood is protected on public lands, entrepreneurs mine it on private property.

"Wood is becoming scarce on private land on both sides of the park," said Viklund. "Our problems are increasing as a result."

Rangers learned of a new threat earlier this year after stopping a man before he could remove any of the precious wood.

The intruder had entered the park via helicopter.

Biologists from 30 to 60 nations are expected to participate in the International Biological Program, for the study of man's place in the world, and hopefully, to enlarge available resources for his future welfare. The program is to begin in 1965 and may last five to seven years.

College Board Names Hall For Mrs. Bonifas

Mrs. Catherine Bonifas

The hallway of classrooms at Bay de Noc Community College has been named Catherine Bonifas Hall by the College Board of Trustees as a permanent memorial to the generosity of an Escanaba woman whose gifts before and after her death prived an inspiration to the community and its people.

Mrs. Bonifas, widow of William Bonifas, died May 25, 1948, at the age of 84.

She bequeathed about $2,500,000 to churches, schools and the City of Escanaba. Among the bequests was $100,000 to assist in the establishment of a community college.

The Bay de Noc Community College Board, meeting last night, adopted a resolution as follows:

"Inasmuch as the Community College District of Delta County is so greatly indebted to Mrs. Catherine Bonifas for her substantial bequest which has enabled immeasurably the establishment of Bay de Noc Community College, it is moved that the classroom hall of the community college be designated Catherine Bonifas Hall in memory of this great lady and that a suitable plaque be erected within the classroom wing to acknowledge her benefactions."

Catherine Bonifas Hall is on the east side of the building and houses the college's classrooms and laboratories. The West Hall contains the administrative and faculty iffices, library and cafeteria.

The Board of Trustees informally expressed appreciation for the good offices of John A. Lemmer, former Escanaba superintendent of schools, friend and confidant of Mrs. Bonifas, who served as executor of the Bonifas estate.

Lemmer as executor saw that wishes of Mrs. Bonifas were carried out to benefit the community in many ways. Establishment of the Community College was one of the objectives encouraged by the bequest of Mrs. Bonifas.

The $100,000 for the community college was part of an $820,000 total to the Escanaba Board of Education. Her gifts aided materially in establishing a technical school, a new Area Public High Schiol, a Junior High School addition and other improvements.

Mrs. Bonifas gave $805,000 to the Diocese of Marquette for purposes that included $600,000 to aid in the construction of Holy Name High School; $300,000 to the City of Escanaba which has been used to aid in financing the State Office Building and the Delta County Building; and there were gifts to St. Francis Hospital.

Earnings of the Bonifas fund moneys before their expenditure was considerable through the years, expanding the scope of benefit to some of the recipients.

by the same score when they tried to keep the bill from being shunted back to committee.

Its return left the Senate without another "vehicle" bill dealing with income taxes.

Relief Plan Junked

With most of the drama taking place in the Senate, and with House Republicans having shown little support for the Romney plan, the House GOP caucus decision to report it out surprised some observers.

Green said the House GOP caucus had voted "29 or 30 to 21" to have the committee report out all bills in the Romney program favorably, but with the property tax relief provision changed for the second time.

Other Republican sources said the vote was 28-21 — two votes short of a majority of the full caucus but enough because only 49 of the 58 GOP members were present.

In changing the property tax provision, Republicans junked a 10 per cent across-the-board tax relief plan which had been substituted for Romney's original 20 per cent cut in school taxes.

The new plan would reduce all county and school property taxes by 15 per cent, with taxpayers to be given a credit on their tax bills and the state to reimburse counties and school districts for the loss.

Green said the cost to the state wuld remain at $93 million, approximately the same amount estimated for the two plans previously in the program.

All other portions of the Romney program, including the income taxes and the newly-added $7 million-per-year school aid increase, were to emerge intact.

The House Taxation Committee was to meet today to add some technical amendments written earlier and "put the bills in shape," Green said, to be delivered to the floor in the next couple of days.

KEY BILL DEAD

LANSING (AP) — The key bill in Gov. George Romney's program to reorganize Michigan's fiscal structure is nearly as dead as the Senate can get it.

The bill, proposing a flat rate income tax, met with a 5-5 deadlock in committee, causing many to conclude it will be there when the current special legislative session ends.

Then the Senate rejected, 20-11, a last-ditch effort by Romney's Senate spokesmen to bypass the commmittee. The bill's enemies seemed satisfied they have heard the last of it in the Senate.

Past legislatures have revived bills bearing even deeper scars, and sometimes these have become law.

If one of the three Democrats and two Republicans who voted against the bill in the Senate Appropriations Committee changes his mind, the Romney tax bill could be freed.

But if one of the five Republicans who voted for it changed his mind, this would, under the committee's rules, be enough to "table" the bill, making it "deader." It would take nine of the ten committee votes to remove the bill from the tabie.

Harnischfeger Gets $800,000 Contract

Congressman Victor Knox announced today that Harnischfeger Corp., has received an $800,000 order for welding machines made at its Escanaba plant. The order is the largest single order ever received by Harnischfeger for welding machines.

The order, placed by the U. S. Army Procurement Office in Chicago, is for 380 machines. A clause in the contract may raise the total purchase to $1,200,000 if the option for 190 additional machines is exercised.

The machines are gas-driven 300 ampere models with modifications required for military applications. They operate in temperatures ranging from subzero to tropical, and are coated protect them from excessive humidity. Auxiliary power can be generated by the machines to operate power tools and other portable equipment.

Production of the machines is expected to begin by next July with delivery completed within a year.

Plant superintendent Jack Williams said that the contract represents in excess of two months of full production at the welding machine plant.

"The order comes at an ideal time," he said, "because it will provide work at a period where we ordinarily experience a seasonal slump. This new order along with another recent order for 100 static welding machines combine to create a substantial backlog for our plant here."

Castings for the machine are being made at an Iron Mountain foundry. They will then be shipped to Gladstone for machining before arriving at the Harnischfeger plant. Lumber for final shipping of the machines will be purchased locally also.

Approximately 100 people are employed by Harnischfeger in the production of welding machines.

Cowboys Sing At Escanaba

At the Wm. W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium next Tuesday evening, Nov. 12, young singing cowboys from North Texas will carry on a musical tradition fifteen centuries old, with deep roots in Tudor London and Gothic Vienna. The Twentieth Century Texas exemplars of this "singing boy" tradition of the Old Wirld are the members of the Texas Boys Choir, founded in 1946 by George Bragg, who continues as their Musical Director and will be on the podium for the Delta County Community concert here.

Appropriately costumed for whatever music they are singing, they'll wear medieval vestments of rich crimson, especially tailored for them in London, for their opening religious group; switch to traditional choirboy flannels for a group of delightful Elizabethan madrigals; and conclude their program in full cowboy regalia with boots, ten-gallon hats and two-gun holsters. Scenic effects, choreography and narration will link the numbers of their highly diversified choral program into a cohesive show.

The members of the Texas Boys Choir range in age from 8 to 15 years The average Texas choirboy likes baseball, is above average in his schoolwork, plays a musical instrument and considers it the worst possible punishment if he is forbidden attendance at choir practice.

Members of the Community Concert Assn. are reminded that their tickets are transferable, and it is hoped every seat will be filled at 8:15 p. m., curtain time.

Frisco Elects First Democrat In 55 Years

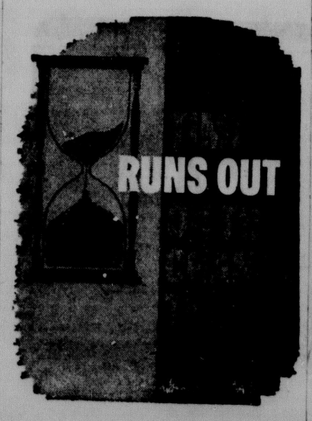

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Franciscans turned out in force despite drizzling rain Tuesday and elected a Democrat as the city's mayor for the first time in 55 years.

Nearly complete returns showed 12-year Congressman John F. Shelley ahead of his closest rival, Republican Supervisor Harold Dobbs by 114,790 to 88,954. Almost 75 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots.

Shelley, who is 58, will be the first Democrat to enter City Hall since Edward R. Taylor was appointed mayor following the ouster of Eugene E. Schmidz during a period of graft prosecution. Taylor was re-elected in 1908.

Though the mayor's post is nonpartisan, this campaign had marked political overtones. Shelley received the endorsement of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and considerable support from party rank and file workers.

Dobbs had the endorsement of San Francisco's three major newspapers and a word of "confidence" from out-going Mayor George Christopher, a Republican barred by charter from succeeding himself a second time.

Democrats Out In Cohoes, N.Y. Election Upset

COHOES, N.Y. (AP) — The defeated mayor of this Albany County city watched his Democratic administration fall in a stunning election upset and promptly declared a state of emergency.

Mayor Andrew H. Santspree ordered extra police into the streets early today because of what he said was widespread violence.

Police later described the incident as "just a little celebration."

Independent candidates swept the Democrats from a position of municipal control they had held for 30 years.

College Board Names Hall For Mrs. Bonifas

The hallway of classrooms at Bay de Noc Community College has been named Catherine Bonifas Hall by the College Board of Trustees as a permanent memorial to the generosity of an Escanaba woman whose gifts before and after her death prived an inspiration to the community and its people.

Mrs. Bonifas, widow of William Bonifas, died May 25, 1948, at the age of 84.

She bequeathed about $2,500,000 to churches, schools and the City of Escanaba. Among the bequests was $100,000 to assist in the establishment of a community college.

Routes Switch

LANSING (AP) — The route numbers of two interstate highways will be switched early next year, says the Highway Department. The number of the freeway from Grand Rapids to Muskegon will be changed from I 196 to I 96. The Benton Harbor-Grand Rapids freeway, now designated as I 96, will become I 196.

Harnischfeger Gets $800,000 Contract

Congressman Victor Knox announced today that Harnischfeger Corp., has received an $800,000 order for welding machines made at its Escanaba plant. The order is the largest single order ever received by Harnischfeger for welding machines.

The order, placed by the U. S. Army Procurement Office in Chicago, is for 380 machines. A clause in the contract may raise the total purchase to $1,200,000 if the option for 190 additional machines is exercised.

The machines are gas-driven 300 ampere models with modifications required for military applications. They operate in temperatures ranging from subzero to tropical, and are coated protect them from excessive humidity. Auxiliary power can be generated by the machines to operate power tools and other portable equipment.

Production of the machines is expected to begin by next July with delivery completed within a year.

Plant superintendent Jack Williams said that the contract represents in excess of two months of full production at the welding machine plant.

"The order comes at an ideal time," he said, "because it will provide work at a period where we ordinarily experience a seasonal slump. This new order along with another recent order for 100 static welding machines combine to create a substantial backlog for our plant here."

Castings for the machine are being made at an Iron Mountain foundry. They will then be shipped to Gladstone for machining before arriving at the Harnischfeger plant. Lumber for final shipping of the machines will be purchased locally also.

Approximately 100 people are employed by Harnischfeger in the production of welding machines.

Cowboys Sing At Escanaba

At the Wm. W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium next Tuesday evening, Nov. 12, young singing cowboys from North Texas will carry on a musical tradition fifteen centuries old, with deep roots in Tudor London and Gothic Vienna. The Twentieth Century Texas exemplars of this "singing boy" tradition of the Old Wirld are the members of the Texas Boys Choir, founded in 1946 by George Bragg, who continues as their Musical Director and will be on the podium for the Delta County Community concert here.

Appropriately costumed for whatever music they are singing, they'll wear medieval vestments of rich crimson, especially tailored for them in London, for their opening religious group; switch to traditional choirboy flannels for a group of delightful Elizabethan madrigals; and conclude their program in full cowboy regalia with boots, ten-gallon hats and two-gun holsters. Scenic effects, choreography and narration will link the numbers of their highly diversified choral program into a cohesive show.

The members of the Texas Boys Choir range in age from 8 to 15 years. The average Texas choirboy likes baseball, is above average in his schoolwork, plays a musical instrument and considers it the worst possible punishment if he is forbidden attendance at choir practice.

Members of the Community Concert Assn. are reminded that their tickets are transferable, and it is hoped every seat will be filled at 8:15 p. m., curtain time.

Elder Citizens' Service Is Goal

The Escanaba Committee on Aging has named committees to proceed with organization and projects of service to the elder citizens of the area and is considering widening its scope of service to include the whole of Delta County.

Meeting last night at Carnegie Public Library with Chairman Charles Follo presiding and about 15 persons attending the Committee gave to committee chairmen the "go ahead" signal on several projects, including:

Development of a "drop-in center" where older persons would be welcomed to gather when they are downtown. There would be a telephone; comfortable chairs; and here also could be centered the work of the proposed Senior Service Corps to assist senior citizens upon request. Leo Laviolette is chairman of this committee.

Surveying the community to determine and list the needs of its older citizens, and who might be available among older persons to assist in a service program. This committee is headed by Arnold Williams.

Researching the activities of senior citizens programs and projects in other communities, to keep abreast of developments in this field. Harry Courtright is chairman.

Extending the scope of the Committee on Aging to include the Delta County area. Lyle Plowman is chairman.

Public information and publicity about the program for senior citizens to better acquaint and enlist the interest and sympathy of the public. The temporary chairman is Vernon Ihlenfeldt.

Organization of a friendly visitors group to call upon shutins and others who may want the encouragement and cheer of social contact. The Escanaba Woman's Club is being asked to suggest a chairman from its gerentology committee.

Frisco Elects First Democrat In 55 Years

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Franciscans turned out in force despite drizzling rain Tuesday and elected a Democrat as the city's mayor for the first time in 55 years.

Nearly complete returns showed 12-year Congressman John F. Shelley ahead of his closest rival, Republican Supervisor Harold Dobbs by 114,790 to 88,954. Almost 75 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots.

Shelley, who is 58, will be the first Democrat to enter City Hall since Edward R. Taylor was appointed mayor following the ouster of Eugene E. Schmidz during a period of graft prosecution. Taylor was re-elected in 1908.

Though the mayor's post is nonpartisan, this campaign had marked political overtones. Shelley received the endorsement of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and considerable support from party rank and file workers.

Dobbs had the endorsement of San Francisco's three major newspapers and a word of "confidence" from out-going Mayor George Christopher, a Republican barred by charter from succeeding himself a second time.

Democrats Out In Cohoes, N.Y. Election Upset

COHOES, N.Y. (AP) — The defeated mayor of this Albany County city watched his Democratic administration fall in a stunning election upset and promptly declared a state of emergency.

Mayor Andrew H. Santspree ordered extra police into the streets early today because of what he said was widespread violence.

Police later described the incident as "just a little celebration."

Santspree had told reporters, "The citizens are going crazy. They're ripping convertible tops, throwing bottles through windows and ripping down the American flags."

Independent candidates swept the Democrats from a position of municipal control they had held for 30 years.

Measles Now, Then Have Healthy Babies Later

AP Newsfeatures

German measles parties for girls are not a fad. It's all in the interest of our new age of enlightment to produce healthy babies, says Dr. Virginia Apgar of Tenafly, N. J., specialist in the problems of newborn infants.

"Junior and senior high school students should intentionally expose themselves to German measles and many are doing it. This year the virus in pregnant women may result in a 50 per cent loss in the first month of pregnancy or in abnormal babies," she points out.

Dr. Apgar is creator of the Apgar Score, a way of determining within one minute after birth whether a baby is normal. Heart rate, muscle tone, respiration and color of the infant contribute to the diagnosis. Its purpose is to determine whether any damage has occurred in the brain before or during birth.

"We are approaching the day when any woman can produce a normal, healthy baby," says Dr. Apgar, head of the Division of Congenital Malformations for the National Foundation, which sponsors research projects on birth defects and arthritis.

Don't Take For Granted

"Every avenue is being explored to overcome birth defects. We know many of the viruses, drugs, chemicals and other causes but there still is work to be done in educating women in this respect."

One of the peak incidents of death in our country occurs during the period from the 36th week of pregnancy to the 4th week of life of the infant.

"We must face up to the fact that pregnancy and birth are not to be taken for granted. A girl should pick her spouse for health as well as love," Dr. Apgar says.

"The two should make premarital tests — writing down family histories of brothers, sisters, fathers, mothers. They may find they have a pretty good record. But on the other hand, if they are cousins, they may risk giving an offspring a double dose of something. They should be aware of each other's inheritance. If there is a mongoloid baby in the background, then they shouldn't be surprised if they have one."

Marry Right Man

Every child in New York Hospital now has a pedigree chart to show what things are going on in the family, another step in establishing permanent health records for individuals, she says.

"If a young married person finds a brother or sister has some mental deficiency, their child can be tested by one prick on the heel, the blood tested and the child treated so that he can grow up to be a bright young man," she says.

Medical science knows many ways you can have a normal healthy baby, she says, such as:

1. Marry the right man (if there is something in the background, you can adopt children.)

2. Go to a German measles party, if you've never had the virus. Although vaccines have been made, they aren't quite ready.

3. Avoid drugs except those prescribed by your doctor for a serious complication. There is a level at which aspirn is under suspicion. Some doctors suspect caffein. Some nose drops contain a drug for shrinking membranes that may be harmful.

4. Avoid x-ray of the pelvic region during a period that could constitute the first 10 days of pregnancy. Any cause to suspect prpegnancy should be related to a doctor or radiologist in order to avoid X-ray at the wrong time.

Smoking Has Effect

Common sense must guide women during the childrearing period, Dr. Apgar points out, and especially during the first three months of pregnancy, the most important time. Overdoses of vitamins may be as harmful as nutritional deficiencies. Hyper-vitaminosis has been associated with birth defects.

Smoking has been found to have a direct effect on the size of babies. The more a woman smokes, the smaller the baby, Dr. Apgar says.

"I get all shook up thinking about what this stuff in the medicine cabinet cost us. Maybe I'd better take a tranquilizer!"

Ann Landers

Stop Chiselers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband, Tony, is a barber. He works hard all day long and when the poor guy gets home at night he is pooped.

We both come from large families and I'm sick and tired of the way everybody takes advantage of him. For example, last week Tony's two brothers came over with their five sons and they all needed haircuts. It was 11:00 o'clock before Tony was able to sit down and read the newspaper.

Sunday my big-shot brother came over for a haircut. He is always "too busy" to get a haircut during the day. Then my uncle dropped in with his son and when he saw Tony cutting Angelo's hair he said, "As long as the scissors are out how about us, too?"

I can count ten free family haircuts this week and it's only Wednesday. How can we put a stop to this without getting everyone mad at us?—TONY'S WIFE

Dear Wife: If you want a pair of sewing scissors in the house, O.K.—but all hair scissors should be at the barber shop.

From now on when the fur-bearing chiselers arrive tell them "Sorry, but the equipment is in the shop—no more haircutting at home."

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for the benefit of that heartbroken mother whose son didn't get into Harvard, Yale or Princeton.

I can speak with authority because our son applied to all three schools and was accepted by all three. He is now a junior at one of these "choice" institutions of learning and I wish he had gone to a small state university instead.

When Roland left for college he was wholesome, well-groomed and above all, normal. The first thing he learned away from home was how to look like a tramp—hair uncut and falling into his eyes, filthy sneakers with torn shoelaces, pants so tight I don't see how he can sit down. He argues with his father about politics and he quotes all sorts of far-out nuts.

So please don't be too unhappy that your son didn't make the Ivy League, mother, I'm sorry mine did. — ALSO HEARTSICK

Dear Also: Sorry, mom, it's not the Ivy—it's Roland. Every campus has it's far-outers and your son would have found them no matter where he went.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: My boy friend who is 21 works a late shift at a garage. He gets off at midnight. I am 19 and work a night shift as a cashier. I get off at 1:00 A.M. Paul usually comes over after work and we sit around and talk until 4:00 or 5:00 A.M.

The neighbors have plenty to say about Paul leaving my house at these hours. Yesterday the woman next door told my father she thought it was disgraceful.

Because of this gossip my father says Paul can't come over after work any more. We can see each other only on weekends.

Do you think it is fair to penalize us just because our working hours are so different? I need your opinion.—NIGHT PEOPLE

Dear Night People: So long as your parents know that Paul visits you at these kooky hours and if they are at home when he visits you, I can't see that this is any of your neighbors' business.

Mannikins undulated in silks and linen dresses bias-cut to slither across the figure. Sexy sheaths, belted at the middle exploded into curves elsewhere.

Gold, white and glitter will bring beauty to holiday evenings. One of the most important of the new evening looks is the costume (left). Nylons And Women Gaining In Japan

ANN ARBOR—Two things have become much stronger in Japan today—nylon stockings and women, says Shio Sakanishi, a former University of Michigan Barbour Scholar.

"Among the various changes in the status of women that have taken place in post-war Japan, their altered position within the family is the most remarkable," she writes in the current issue of "The Michigan Quarterly Review" published Friday (Oct. 25, 1963).

"The old doctrine of the obediences—the child's obedience to its parents, the wife's to her husband, and the superannuated mother's to her son—has lost all legal support. New civil laws abolished the old family system and provided women with every possible right—property rights, inheritance rights, the right of marriage and divorce, and parental rights," she says.

Japanese women today are demanding equal education rights too. "They are — in a manner of speaking—education mad," she says.

"Higher education was for a long time a privilege of the boys. But most mothers came to think that if colleges and universities were good for boys, they must be good for girls too. Since 1947, under the new education charter, the national universities as well as the private institutions of higher learning open their doors to women."

"Ninety years ago, when the Government ordered children to be sent to school, mothers knocked on the doors of old temples and of the manor houses of rich land owners, and setting up improvised benches in meditation halls and drawing rooms, converted these to classrooms," she says.

"Today, in order to send her children to the best possible schools in the community and to give them a higher education, a mother will sometimes sell ancestral land and home. Such is her confidence that education will improve the condition of her children."

Today the liberal arts colleges and universities are afraid they will in time be monopolized by women, notes Miss Sakanishi. "The enrollment of the literary department of Peers University this years, for example, was 92 per cent women," she writes. "Even Keio, the last male hold-out among the institutions of higher learning, was invaded, and this year more than half of the Keio students in liberal arts are girls.

"Schools for Brides"

"The male students, as well as some administrators, complain that the academies of learning have been turned into schools for brides, and they fear this development is going to bring the country to tragic disaster. But so far, no one has taken them seriously."

Miss Sakanishi notes that the mode of living is changing too as a result of the wider use of modern household conveniences. "Many women, in the cities at least, now have time to engage in gainful work, in recreation or self-improvement and in social welfare service . . . The mechanization of farm labor has in many cases also elevated farm women from mere 'hands' to farm managers and heads of households."

The problem that most deeply occupies the mind of Japanese women is that of peace, according to Miss Sakanishi. "Peace to us means not only an absence of violence. It includes a positive determination to respect and preserve life . . . Modern science and technology can at times confuse us. We must stand firm in our determination to respect at all costs the will to live and the aspiration to live more abundantly."

Nylons And Women Gaining In Japan

ANN ARBOR—Two things have become much stronger in Japan today—nylon stockings and women, says Shio Sakanishi, a former University of Michigan Barbour Scholar.

"Among the various changes in the status of women that have taken place in post-war Japan, their altered position within the family is the most remarkable," she writes in the current issue of "The Michigan Quarterly Review" published Friday (Oct. 25, 1963).

"The old doctrine of the obediences—the child's obedience to its parents, the wife's to her husband, and the superannuated mother's to her son—has lost all legal support. New civil laws abolished the old family system and provided women with every possible right—property rights, inheritance rights, the right of marriage and divorce, and parental rights," she says.

Japanese women today are demanding equal education rights too. "They are — in a manner of speaking—education mad," she says.

"Higher education was for a long time a privilege of the boys. But most mothers came to think that if colleges and universities were good for boys, they must be good for girls too. Since 1947, under the new education charter, the national universities as well as the private institutions of higher learning open their doors to women."

"Ninety years ago, when the Government ordered children to be sent to school, mothers knocked on the doors of old temples and of the manor houses of rich land owners, and setting up improvised benches in meditation halls and drawing rooms, converted these to classrooms," she says.

"Today, in order to send her children to the best possible schools in the community and to give them a higher education, a mother will sometimes sell ancestral land and home. Such is her confidence that education will improve the condition of her children."

Today the liberal arts colleges and universities are afraid they will in time be monopolized by women, notes Miss Sakanishi. "The enrollment of the literary department of Peers University this years, for example, was 92 per cent women," she writes. "Even Keio, the last male hold-out among the institutions of higher learning, was invaded, and this year more than half of the Keio students in liberal arts are girls.

"Schools for Brides"

"The male students, as well as some administrators, complain that the academies of learning have been turned into schools for brides, and they fear this development is going to bring the country to tragic disaster. But so far, no one has taken them seriously."

Miss Sakanishi notes that the mode of living is changing too as a result of the wider use of modern household conveniences. "Many women, in the cities at least, now have time to engage in gainful work, in recreation or self-improvement and in social welfare service . . . The mechanization of farm labor has in many cases also elevated farm women from mere 'hands' to farm managers and heads of households."

The problem that most deeply occupies the mind of Japanese women is that of peace, according to Miss Sakanishi. "Peace to us means not only an absence of violence. It includes a positive determination to respect and preserve life . . . Modern science and technology can at times confuse us. We must stand firm in our determination to respect at all costs the will to live and the aspiration to live more abundantly."

Three Broncos Land Berths On All-Conference

By RAY CRANDALL
(Press Sports Editor)

BARK RIVER - HARRIS — Coach Carlton Roels' Bark River-Harris Broncos dominated the Wolevrine all-conference football team announced by coaches at their annual grid recognition banquet here Tuesday.

The Broncos, who shared the conference championship with Pembine this year, landed three players on the honor team. Pembine placed two players on the select squad, Rock two and Powers-Spalding two.

Topping the selections, made by the conference coaches, was scoring champion Bill Kwarciany of Bark River. Kwarciany won the conference scoring crown with 61 points on 10 touchdowns and one conversion.

Also representing the Broncos were Jan Bruce and Kelly Ryan.

Named from Pembine were passing star Bill Gehling and his favorite target, end Burry Venstra. Selected from Rock were Bill Johnson and back Ed Linjala. Named from Powers were Paul Behrend and Jerry Nowack.

Placed on the conference honorable mention list were Mike Nelson and Herman Kleiman of Powers, Dave Bruce of Bark River, Joe Anderson and Paul Hartl of Pembine and Mike Ruotsala, Don LaCosse and Mike Kulack of Rock.

Twin trophies were presented to Roels and Nick DalSanto, coaches of co-champion Bark River and Pembine, by Roman Gill who served as master of ceremonies.

Singled out for special recognition were Kwarciany, Linjala and Behrend who were named to the All-Upper Peninsula honorable mention list in Class C-D by the Upper Peninsula Sportswriters Assn., last weekend.

Vic Mankiewicz, Rock, presented the 1963 league statistics for teams and individuals. Following Kwarciany in the conference scoring list were Venstra with 56 points, Linjala 32, Kulack 26, Bob Maki of Rock 20 and Behrend 19.

Walter Peters, superintendent of Rapid River Schools and a member of the Upper Peninsula Athletic Committee, was the main speaker. He discussed athletics as a foundation for future life and listed some important qualities that are required to be a successful athlete and citizen.

Official league standings:

Team	W	L	T
Bark River	4	2	0
Pembine	4	2	0

Otto Graham Happy Coach

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)— Who is the happpiest football coach in the United States today?

"I am," insists Otto Graham, a great quarterback who turned down scores of coaching offers to coach football and direct athletics at the Coast Guard Academy.

There is none of the big-time pressure to win, but the 42-year-old Graham, now a full commander, and his Cadets have won all six of their games this season.

The Cadets are a solid favorite to take their seventh straight against Central Connecticut State, 1-5, Saturday in one of their two remaining games.

In the 21 years that football has been played at the academy, the best previous mark was 6-0-1 in 1951.

"I'm just having lots of fun," said Graham, an All-America at Northwestern and an All-Pro with the Cleveland Browns.

In the five years here, Graham reportedly has turned down more offers than most coaches get in a lifetime. His record so far is 23-14-1.

Said Graham:

"What I like about it here is that we don't have to win at all costs. We want to win, yes, but there's no premium on it. More important, we've been having lots of fun, the players and I.

"Once the season is finished, most coaches have to hop into a car and start recruiting. The recruiting I do is the mailing of pamphlets to high school coaches showing what the academy has to offer a boy."

Michigan State Picked To Lose Saturday Clash

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — And then there were but three.

Nine weeks ago every college football team had an unblemished record and every coach dreamed of an unbeaten season. Now only three big time teams remain unbeaten and untied — Texas, Auburn and Princeton. Each meets a formidable rival this weekend but each should squeak through and continue unscathed into the campaign's final weeks.

Nine weeks ago all football forecasters also had perfect records. Now this corner is only .733 perfect on 267 correct guesses and 97 incorrect ones following last weekend's 41-18-.695 figures.

Texas over Baylor: The Southwest Conference title could be decided in this one. Evrey time Texas gets in trouble, the Longhorns call on shoeless Tony Crosby to kick them out of it. Don Trull's passing will stymie the Longhorns for a time.

Auburn over Mississippi State: Jimmy Sidle of Auburn is the nation's top running back and the Mississippi Bulldogs haven't the speed to catch him.

Princeton over Harvard: Everybody raves about Tiger fullback Cosmo Iacavazzi and his bruising power but have you noticed that Princeton's defenders have yielded only 33 points all season?

Mississippi over Tampa: The spectators' money should be refunded.

Navy over Maryland: Roger Staubach will wave the magic wand and all of Maryland's dreams will evaporate.

Illinois over Michigan: Brother Pete Elliott gets revenge for the 14-10 defeat administered by brother Bump Elliott a year ago, despite the Wolverines' newly discovered aerial attack.

Washington over California: The Huskies have Rose Bowl fever.

Notre Dame over Pittsburgh: Despite Fred Mazurek's heroics, Notre Dame will close its home schedule with a victory.

Oklahoma over Iowa State: The sparse Iowa State roster doesn't have manpower enough to handle the speedy Oklahomans.

Purdue over Michigan State: The Boilermakers will find a way of stopping Sherm Lewis, the Spartans' scatback.

Ohio State over Penn State: Almost every week Ohio State comes up with an unknown to pester its foes. Last week it was Tom Barrington. No telling who it will be this time around.

Machen Scores Ring Knockout

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Eddie Machen, 197, now fighting out of Berkeley, Calif., knocked out Bull McMurray, 208½, Sacramento, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round boxing main event Tuesday night.

McMurray was counted out by referee Vern Bybee in 2:13 of the seventh round. There were no earlier knockdowns, but Machen compiled a big lead in points. He stopped McMurray with two hard rights to the head and body followed by a left hook to the body.

The referee's score card had it 6-0 Machen. One judge had it 5-0-1 Machen while the other had Machen ahead 4-2.

Brown Nears Yardage Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Brown's statistics become more awesome every Sunday. The Cleveland fullback, playing his seventh year of pro ball, soon will become the greatest ball carrier in National Football League history.

Counting all ball carrying means—rushing, pass catching and returns of interceptions, kickoffs, punts and fumbles, Brown has gained 11,086 yards for the Browns. That leaves him only 231 short of the record of 11,317 held by Ollie Matson, now of the Detroit Lions.

Brown remains way out front in the 1963 rushing race with 1,194 yards, his fifth season of 1,000 yards or more. Jim Taylor of Green Bay is next with 639 yards.

Three members of the Los Angeles Dodgers were born in Brooklyn. They are Sandy Koufax, Tommy Davis and Al Ferrara.

Michigan Tech Has Top Record

By The Associated Press

Michigan Tech and Michigan State share the honor as the state's winningest football teams this week as the season rapidly draws to a close for some of the smaller schools.

Michigan Tech, which completed its season last Saturday, finished with a 6-2 record for a percentage of .750. Michigan State has the same percentage on a 4-1-1 mark. The Spartans have three games remaining.

Kalamazoo, Albion, Central Michigan and Hillsdale are above the break-even point, while Ferris State and Hope are both at the .500 level with 4-4 records.

Ferris State and Northwood are the other teams that have completed their seasons.

Five more schools—Northern Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Adrian, Hope and Olivet—close out this Saturday.

Northwood's Bob Benjamin continues to lead individual scorers with 54 points. His lead will probably not last, however, since Central Michigan's Larry Moore has 52 points and Hope's Bill Hultgren has 50. CMU has two games remaining.

Spartan Veteran To Call Signals

EAST LANSING (AP—It isn't as if a kid quarterback is taking over at Michigan State as signal-caller for the game with always-dangerous Purdue.

Dick Proebstle, suddenly elevated to starter by the injury to Steve Juday, is bigger, older and more experienced than the sophomore he replaces.

Coaches waited until the last minute this fall before deciding on their starter. They gambled on Juday because of his passing. Although not brilliant by Big Ten standards, he prevented any jamming of the line to stop the Spartan running game.

With Juday out for the season with a shoulder separation, Proebstle has a chance to prove himself.

Juday hit 30 of 68 tries for a respectable 509 yards and five touchdowns.

Proebstle, seen only in relief roles, has five hits in 15 tries for 55 yards and one touchdown.

Proebstle, from Canton, Ohio, is a senior in college but a junior in eligibility because he sat out last year with a chest injury. A 6-2, 21-year old, 200-pounder, he is three inches taller, two years older and about 25 pounds heavier than Juday.

Coaches rate Proebstle the better runner. He has 53 yards rushing while Juday had minus 58 yards, mostly on being caught back trying to throw.

Proebstle will run the ball when he gets the chance. He also did a good job of running the ball club when Juday went out in the first period against Wisconsin.

Dave McCormick, a sophomore from Chicago, is the second quarterback. McCormick has moved the team for just a few plays, but his single pass so far was an 18 - yarder for a touchdown on a fake field goal.

The quarterbacks got all the attention in practice Tuesday night. In addition to working with Proebstle and McCormick on offense, coaches had practice thrower Roger Hailey playing the role of Purdue's Ron DiGravio as the defense worked on pass protection.

Michigan State Picked To Lose Saturday Clash

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — And then there were but three.

Nine weeks ago every college football team had an unblemished record and every coach dreamed of an unbeaten season. Now only three big time teams remain unbeaten and untied — Texas, Auburn and Princeton. Each meets a formidable rival this weekend but each should squeak through and continue unscathed into the campaign's final weeks.

Nine weeks ago all football forecasters also had perfect records. Now this corner is only .733 perfect on 267 correct guesses and 97 incorrect ones following last weekend's 41-18-.695 figures.

Texas over Baylor: The Southwest Conference title could be decided in this one. Evrey time Texas gets in trouble, the Longhorns call on shoeless Tony Crosby to kick them out of it. Don Trull's passing will stymie the Longhorns for a time.

Auburn over Mississippi State: Jimmy Sidle of Auburn is the nation's top running back and the Mississippi Bulldogs haven't the speed to catch him.

Princeton over Harvard: Everybody raves about Tiger fullback Cosmo Iacavazzi and his bruising power but have you noticed that Princeton's defenders have yielded only 33 points all season?

Mississippi over Tampa: The spectators' money should be refunded.

Navy over Maryland: Roger Staubach will wave the magic wand and all of Maryland's dreams will evaporate.

Illinois over Michigan: Brother Pete Elliott gets revenge for the 14-10 defeat administered by brother Bump Elliott a year ago, despite the Wolverines' newly discovered aerial attack.

Washington over California: The Huskies have Rose Bowl fever.

Notre Dame over Pittsburgh: Despite Fred Mazurek's heroics, Notre Dame will close its home schedule with a victory.

Oklahoma over Iowa State: The sparse Iowa State roster doesn't have manpower enough to handle the speedy Oklahomans.

Purdue over Michigan State: The Boilermakers will find a way of stopping Sherm Lewis, the Spartans' scatback.

Ohio State over Penn State: Almost every week Ohio State comes up with an unknown to pester its foes. Last week it was Tom Barrington. No telling who it will be this time around.

Three Broncos Land Berths On All-Conference

By RAY CRANDALL
(Press Sports Editor)

BARK RIVER - HARRIS — Coach Carlton Roels' Bark River-Harris Broncos dominated the Wolevrine all-conference football team announced by coaches at their annual grid recognition banquet here Tuesday.

The Broncos, who shared the conference championship with Pembine this year, landed three players on the honor team. Pembine placed two players on the select squad, Rock two and Powers-Spalding two.

Topping the selections, made by the conference coaches, was scoring champion Bill Kwarciany of Bark River. Kwarciany won the conference scoring crown with 61 points on 10 touchdowns and one conversion.

Also representing the Broncos were Jan Bruce and Kelly Ryan.

Named from Pembine were passing star Bill Gehling and his favorite target, end Burry Venstra. Selected from Rock were Bill Johnson and back Ed Linjala. Named from Powers were Paul Behrend and Jerry Nowack.

Placed on the conference honorable mention list were Mike Nelson and Herman Kleiman of Powers, Dave Bruce of Bark River, Joe Anderson and Paul Hartl of Pembine and Mike Ruotsala, Don LaCosse and Mike Kulack of Rock.

Twin trophies were presented to Roels and Nick DalSanto, coaches of co-champion Bark River and Pembine, by Roman Gill who served as master of ceremonies.

Singled out for special recognition were Kwarciany, Linjala and Behrend who were named to the All-Upper Peninsula honorable mention list in Class C-D by the Upper Peninsula Sportswriters Assn., last weekend.

Vic Mankiewicz, Rock, presented the 1963 league statistics for teams and individuals. Following Kwarciany in the conference scoring list were Venstra with 56 points, Linjala 32, Kulack 26, Bob Maki of Rock 20 and Behrend 19.

Walter Peters, superintendent of Rapid River Schools and a member of the Upper Peninsula Athletic Committee, was the main speaker. He discussed athletics as a foundation for future life and listed some important qualities that are required to be a successful athlete and citizen.

Brown Nears Yardage Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Brown's statistics become more awesome every Sunday. The Cleveland fullback, playing his seventh year of pro ball, soon will become the greatest ball carrier in National Football League history.

Counting all ball carrying means—rushing, pass catching and returns of interceptions, kickoffs, punts and fumbles, Brown has gained 11,086 yards for the Browns. That leaves him only 231 short of the record of 11,317 held by Ollie Matson, now of the Detroit Lions.

Brown remains way out front in the 1963 rushing race with 1,194 yards, his fifth season of 1,000 yards or more. Jim Taylor of Green Bay is next with 639 yards.

Three members of the Los Angeles Dodgers were born in Brooklyn. They are Sandy Koufax, Tommy Davis and Al Ferrara.

The 1963 Wolverine all-conference football team was named at the annual banquet Tuesday night at the Bark River-Harris Elementary School. At top, left to right, front row: Bill Johnson, Rock; Bill Gehling, Pembine; Bill Kwarciany, Bark River; Jerry Nowack, Powers. Front row: Ed Linjala, Rock; Jan Bruce, Bark River; Burry Venstra, Pembine; Kelly Ryan, Bark River, and Paul Behrend, Powers. Otto Graham Happy Coach

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—Who is the happpiest football coach in the United States today?

"I am," insists Otto Graham, a great quarterback who turned down scores of coaching offers to coach football and direct athletics at the Coast Guard Academy.

There is none of the big-time pressure to win, but the 42-year-old Graham, now a full commander, and his Cadets have won all six of their games this season.

The Cadets are a solid favorite to take their seventh straight against Central Connecticut State, 1-5, Saturday in one of their two remaining games.

In the 21 years that football has been played at the academy, the best previous mark was 6-0-1 in 1951.

"I'm just having lots of fun," said Graham, an All-America at Northwestern and an All-Pro with the Cleveland Browns.

In the five years here, Graham reportedly has turned down more offers than most coaches get in a lifetime. His record so far is 23-14-1.

Said Graham:

"What I like about it here is that we don't have to win at all costs. We want to win, yes, but there's no premium on it. More important, we've been having lots of fun, the players and I.

"Once the season is finished, most coaches have to hop into a car and start recruiting. The recruiting I do is the mailing of pamphlets to high school coaches showing what the academy has to offer a boy."

Michigan Tech Has Top Record

By The Associated Press

Michigan Tech and Michigan State share the honor as the state's winningest football teams this week as the season rapidly draws to a close for some of the smaller schools.

Michigan Tech, which completed its season last Saturday, finished with a 6-2 record for a percentage of .750. Michigan State has the same percentage on a 4-1-1 mark. The Spartans have three games remaining.

Kalamazoo, Albion, Central Michigan and Hillsdale are above the break-even point, while Ferris State and Hope are both at the .500 level with 4-4 records.

Ferris State and Northwood are the other teams that have completed their seasons.

Five more schools—Northern Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Adrian, Hope and Olivet—close out this Saturday.

Northwood's Bob Benjamin continues to lead individual scorers with 54 points. His lead will probably not last, however, since Central Michigan's Larry Moore has 52 points and Hope's Bill Hultgren has 50. CMU has two games remaining.

Spartan Veteran To Call Signals

EAST LANSING (AP—It isn't as if a kid quarterback is taking over at Michigan State as signal-caller for the game with always-dangerous Purdue.

Dick Proebstle, suddenly elevated to starter by the injury to Steve Juday, is bigger, older and more experienced than the sophomore he replaces.

Coaches waited until the last minute this fall before deciding on their starter. They gambled on Juday because of his passing. Although not brilliant by Big Ten standards, he prevented any jamming of the line to stop the Spartan running game.

With Juday out for the season with a shoulder separation, Proebstle has a chance to prove himself.

Juday hit 30 of 68 tries for a respectable 509 yards and five touchdowns.

Proebstle, seen only in relief roles, has five hits in 15 tries for 55 yards and one touchdown.

Proebstle, from Canton, Ohio, is a senior in college but a junior in eligibility because he sat out last year with a chest injury. A 6-2, 21-year old, 200-pounder, he is three inches taller, two years older and about 25 pounds heavier than Juday.

Coaches rate Proebstle the better runner. He has 53 yards rushing while Juday had minus 58 yards, mostly on being caught back trying to throw.

Proebstle will run the ball when he gets the chance. He also did a good job of running the ball club when Juday went out in the first period against Wisconsin.

Dave McCormick, a sophomore from Chicago, is the second quarterback. McCormick has moved the team for just a few plays, but his single pass so far was an 18 - yarder for a touchdown on a fake field goal.

The quarterbacks got all the attention in practice Tuesday night. In addition to working with Proebstle and McCormick on offense, coaches had practice thrower Roger Hailey playing the role of Purdue's Ron DiGravio as the defense worked on pass protection.

Liston, Clay Pick February For Fight Date

DENVER (AP) — Mid-February is the time and Los Angeles is probably the site for Sonny Liston's defense of his heavyweight boxing championship against Cassius Clay.

In a zany setting Tuesday, they signed contracts for a 15-round title fight expected to gross a record $6 to $8 million.

Two separate Los Angeles groups, one headed by former champion Joe Louis, offered guarantees of more than $1 million for the right to stage the battle.

Jack Nilon, Liston's advisor, said other bids have been received from Minneapolis, Chicago, Miami and Las Vegas. He said the site will be announced within two weeks.

Clay, unbeaten since turning pro in 1960, will get 22½ per cent of the receipts — described as a record for a challenger. Liston, who received 12½ per cent in his challenge fight against Floyd Patterson in Chicago, will get 40 per cent.

Spontaneous comedy spiced the contract signing at the Denver Hilton.

Shouting, "I'm the greatest, here comes the next champion," Clay swaggered in the room.

He first refused to sit beside Nilon, who was seated beside Liston. "I don't want to be near him," Clay said.

Liston, who alternately frowned and smiled, got into the act by pulling out a pair of rabbit fur-coated boxing gloves and asking Clay if he wanted the champion to wear those for Clay's safety.

Clay seemed at a loss for words before waving off the offer with his oft-repeated:

"I'm the greatest, I ain't scared of nobody."

Liston scored one-round knockouts over Patterson in winning the title at Chicago and in their return match at Las Vegas last July. The second victory over Patterson was his 28th straight and his 35th in 36 bouts. Liston has knocked out 25 opponents.

Clay has recorded 19 victories since turning pro after winning the light heavyweight crown in the 1960 Olympics. In his last appearance he stopped Henry Cooper, British heavyweight champion, in the fifth round last June 18 in London.

Spartan Lineman Gets Top Honor

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Earl Lattimer, a Michigan State guard and linebacker who frequently delights the crowd by turning a somersault when running up to his position, has been chosen the Associated Press Lineman of the Week for his role in Saturday's upset victory over Wisconsin.

Lattimer performs his acrobatics out of sheer enthusiasm for the game. He loves to hit.

Like most of the Spartan line, he is expected to go both ways. Lattimer has been bulldozing a path for the offense and has been a bear on defense all season.

The 5-11, 218-pound senior from Dallas, Tex., was moved from fullback to guard this fall.

He was a standout in the Wisconsin game in which MSU beat the favored Badgers 30-13. This knocked Wisconsin out of eighth place in the national rankings and earned the Spartans No. 9 spot. It also kept Michigan State in a tie for first in the Big Ten with Illinois and Ohio State.

In addition to his line play, Lattimer kicked a 44-yard field goal, booting it against a 17 mile per hour wind. He's hit two out of three and coaches now figure they will use him for field goals the remainder of the season. He also snagged the only pass interception of the Wisconsin game.

Lattimer was the Lineman of the Week choice over Dick Butkus, 235-pound junior Illinois center and linebacker. Butkus led the rush against Purdue quarterback Ron Digravio to keep the Illini in Big Ten title contention with a 41-21 win.

A leading West Coast nominee was a Norwegian skiier, Koll Hagen, converted to American football and doing standout work at guard for the University of Washington.

Morall Replaces Plum As Passer

DETROIT (AP) — Earl Morrall, long the Detroit Lions' bullpen quarterback, has pitched himself from the role of fireman to that of Big Chief in one of the "sleeper" stories of the current National Football League season.

Instead of being a benchwarmer and waiting for the cue to relieve Milt Plum, the 29-year-old Morrall has turned over his second-fiddle seat to Plum, who now is mainly a kicker.

Morrall, a former Michigan State star, sealed his bid for the Lions' No. 1 quarterback spot after a 5-year wait with a dazzling passing performance last Sunday. He led Detroit to a 45-7 triumph over San Francisco.

Morrall completed 24 of 33 passes for 330 yards. Four of his passes went for touchdowns.

Coach George Wilson removed Morrall late in the fourth quarter and sent Plum in to call the signals. This was quite a switch.

Plum had been Wilson's starting "pitcher" ever since coming to the Lions from Cleveland before the 1962 season. But Plum wasn't able to keep the team rolling, and his demotion became only a matter of time when the Lions got off to a horrendous start this season.

Picked in pre-season polls as an NFL title contender, Detroit stumbled to a 2-4 record with Plum starting at quarterback. Morrall, as usual, was the backup man and usually saw service in the second half.

Wilson gave Morrall a shot at the starting assignment against Minnesota Oct. 27. He responded by leading the Lions to a 28-10 victory.

RECOUNTS JONES' DEEDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bob Jones era really began at the Inwood Country Club on Long Island 40 years ago when he won the USGA Open title, his first of 13 national championships.

The anniversary prompted Lester Rice to write about Jones' deeds of the 1920s in the September issue of the USGA Golf Journal.

Within eight years Jones finished first or second in seven of eight US Opens and won three British Opens. Four years before his 1930 Grand Slam, Jones won both the 1926 US and British Opens, reached the sixth round of the British Amateur and in the US Amateur at Balustrol, Springfield, N. J., he was beaten at the 35th green in the final by George Von Elm.

Liston, Clay Pick February For Fight Date

DENVER (AP) — Mid-February is the time and Los Angeles is probably the site for Sonny Liston's defense of his heavyweight boxing championship against Cassius Clay.

In a zany setting Tuesday, they signed contracts for a 15-round title fight expected to gross a record $6 to $8 million.

Two separate Los Angeles groups, one headed by former champion Joe Louis, offered guarantees of more than $1 million for the right to stage the battle.

Jack Nilon, Liston's advisor, said other bids have been received from Minneapolis, Chicago, Miami and Las Vegas. He said the site will be announced within two weeks.

Clay, unbeaten since turning pro in 1960, will get 22½ per cent of the receipts — described as a record for a challenger. Liston, who received 12½ per cent in his challenge fight against Floyd Patterson in Chicago, will get 40 per cent.

Spontaneous comedy spiced the contract signing at the Denver Hilton.

Shouting, "I'm the greatest, here comes the next champion," Clay swaggered in the room.

He first refused to sit beside Nilon, who was seated beside Liston. "I don't want to be near him," Clay said.

Liston, who alternately frowned and smiled, got into the act by pulling out a pair of rabbit fur-coated boxing gloves and asking Clay if he wanted the champion to wear those for Clay's safety.

Clay seemed at a loss for words before waving off the offer with his oft-repeated:

"I'm the greatest, I ain't scared of nobody."

Liston scored one-round knockouts over Patterson in winning the title at Chicago and in their return match at Las Vegas last July. The second victory over Patterson was his 28th straight and his 35th in 36 bouts. Liston has knocked out 25 opponents.

Clay has recorded 19 victories since turning pro after winning the light heavyweight crown in the 1960 Olympics. In his last appearance he stopped Henry Cooper, British heavyweight champion, in the fifth round last June 18 in London.

Spartan Lineman Gets Top Honor

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Earl Lattimer, a Michigan State guard and linebacker who frequently delights the crowd by turning a somersault when running up to his position, has been chosen the Associated Press Lineman of the Week for his role in Saturday's upset victory over Wisconsin.

Lattimer performs his acrobatics out of sheer enthusiasm for the game. He loves to hit.

Like most of the Spartan line, he is expected to go both ways. Lattimer has been bulldozing a path for the offense and has been a bear on defense all season.

The 5-11, 218-pound senior from Dallas, Tex., was moved from fullback to guard this fall.

He was a standout in the Wisconsin game in which MSU beat the favored Badgers 30-13. This knocked Wisconsin out of eighth place in the national rankings and earned the Spartans No. 9 spot. It also kept Michigan State in a tie for first in the Big Ten with Illinois and Ohio State.

In addition to his line play, Lattimer kicked a 44-yard field goal, booting it against a 17 mile per hour wind. He's hit two out of three and coaches now figure they will use him for field goals the remainder of the season. He also snagged the only pass interception of the Wisconsin game.

Lattimer was the Lineman of the Week choice over Dick Butkus, 235-pound junior Illinois center and linebacker. Butkus led the rush against Purdue quarterback Ron Digravio to keep the Illini in Big Ten title contention with a 41-21 win.

A leading West Coast nominee was a Norwegian skiier, Koll Hagen, converted to American football and doing standout work at guard for the University of Washington.

RECOUNTS JONES' DEEDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bob Jones era really began at the Inwood Country Club on Long Island 40 years ago when he won the USGA Open title, his first of 13 national championships.

The anniversary prompted Lester Rice to write about Jones' deeds of the 1920s in the September issue of the USGA Golf Journal.

Within eight years Jones finished first or second in seven of eight US Opens and won three British Opens. Four years before his 1930 Grand Slam, Jones won both the 1926 US and British Opens, reached the sixth round of the British Amateur and in the US Amateur at Balustrol, Springfield, N. J., he was beaten at the 35th green in the final by George Von Elm.

Morall Replaces Plum As Passer

DETROIT (AP) — Earl Morrall, long the Detroit Lions' bullpen quarterback, has pitched himself from the role of fireman to that of Big Chief in one of the "sleeper" stories of the current National Football League season.

Instead of being a benchwarmer and waiting for the cue to relieve Milt Plum, the 29-year-old Morrall has turned over his second-fiddle seat to Plum, who now is mainly a kicker.

Morrall, a former Michigan State star, sealed his bid for the Lions' No. 1 quarterback spot after a 5-year wait with a dazzling passing performance last Sunday. He led Detroit to a 45-7 triumph over San Francisco.

Morrall completed 24 of 33 passes for 330 yards. Four of his passes went for touchdowns.

Coach George Wilson removed Morrall late in the fourth quarter and sent Plum in to call the signals. This was quite a switch.

Plum had been Wilson's starting "pitcher" ever since coming to the Lions from Cleveland before the 1962 season. But Plum wasn't able to keep the team rolling, and his demotion became only a matter of time when the Lions got off to a horrendous start this season.

Picked in pre-season polls as an NFL title contender, Detroit stumbled to a 2-4 record with Plum starting at quarterback. Morrall, as usual, was the backup man and usually saw service in the second half.

Wilson gave Morrall a shot at the starting assignment against Minnesota Oct. 27. He responded by leading the Lions to a 28-10 victory.

ARA Using Tax Funds To Help Promote Itself

Nation's Business in its November issue reports on "What's back of fight over ARA. Controversial agency uses tax payer funds to create a demand for more." Presented below are excerpts from the article.

Whatever the New Frontier has done for employment generally, it has solved the unemployment problems for dozens of economists, financial technicians, and technical research experts.

So says an economist who ran a year-long Ford Foundation study of the Area Redevelopment Administration, the federal agency trying to treat chronic unemployment with easy money and advice from Washington.

The effort has created work for the new agency itself, for employes of other departments working with it, and for a zealous ARA sales force whose promotional successes are credited with creating demand for much more in low-cost federal loans than Congress authorized

A close look at the two-year-old agency—some of its policies, procedures, and people—is in order as it seeks to expand operations amid national debate over its performance.

To compose a picture of the agency, Nation's Business went to sources within and outside of government, including Harold L. Williams, deputy administrator of ARA, and Dr. Sar Levitan of The George Washington University, who heads the $57,000 Ford Foundation study.

Program In Millions

What emerges helps to explain why Dr. Levitan, a long-time supporter of depressed - area legislation, is often critical of the agency, and why even Deputy Administrator Williams says government should move very cautiously before launching itself much deeper into redevelopment efforts.

ARA has its roots in the Employment Act of 1946, which declared it a responsibility of the national government to pursue policies tending to stimulate economic growth and full employment.

It took considerable footwork, Dr. Levitan points out, to jump from that essentially passive role of government to a program authorizing $200 million in commercial and industrial loans, $100 million in other loans and $75 million in grants for public facilities, $4.5 million in technical assistance, $10 million for job trainees, and $4.5 million for their training.

The agency is headed by Redevelopment Administrator William L. Batt, Jr.

A dedicated New Dealer impressed with President Roosevelt's depression-born welfare programs, Mr. Batt began his career on graduation from Harvard as a staff member with the Temporary National Economic Committee.

Mr. Batt and his top officials are assisted by a National Public Advisory Committee whose members feel that they, unlike those of many other advisory committees set up for mere window dressing, have a real influence on their program.

The committee includes a liberal representation of union officials. It also includes Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, a reliable congressional witness for ARA from an area which is receiving $3,679,000 in loans, including $1.9 million for the deluxe Pontchartrain Hotel and $1 million for a motor hotel.

Another member is Clyde T. Ellis, general manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association. Mr. Ellis, along with a spokesman for the American Public Power Association, recently urged President Kennedy to back a TVA-type authority for the area embracing nine states in the Appalachian Area.

Another is C. Benton Musslewhite of Lufkin, Tex., who has been active in state Democratic politics, serves as campaign assistant for the Democratic National Committee, and tried to unseat incumbent Rep. John Dowdy in the Democratic primary (before his appointment to the committee).

Congressman Dowdy expects a return match, claiming that Mr Musslewhite appears to be using ARA as a vehicle in diligent politicking back home.

Local Initiative

Here's how the program operates once a community makes the list—which requires no local action and in some cases happens over the community's protest:

To participate, the community must first establish what the Senate Banking Committee describes as: ". . . a broadly based local organization representing a cross section of all elements of the community to assess the economic conditions of that area and to act as the local corrdinator for redevelopment activities."

As a second step, this group must draft an over-all economic development program (OEDP) as a guide for community action. The program must be approved by state and federal officials before a loan application will be considered.

This initial process is cited by partisans of ARA as a primary benefit of the program, on the theory that it galvanizes depressed communities to forge a cooperative effort, stimulates local initiative, and brings about long-needed self-appraisal of problems and prospects.

The Labor Force

How has the system worked up to this point

In many cases the plans are "practically meaningless," says Dr. Levitan, who points out that in one state the process consisted simply of an agency's cranking out plans for every county in the state.

Consultant John Fletcher Wellemeyer, who was hired by ARA to evaluate a batch of these plans to determine whether they were geared to local labor force conditions, adds further evidence.

Asked by Nation's Business how the planners erred in considering the manpower question, he replied: "The most common type of deficiency was that they didn't mention it at all."

The ARA field representatives, whose salaries are in the $12,000 range, include men with experience in business and finance, industrial development work, armed services community relations, farming, municipal government, and federal agencies.

Cleary And Politics

They also include men who have held state appointive jobs, and former administrative assistants to congressmen, elected city officials, state legislators.

The agency can hire consultants to do field work, but officials have assured Congress that they have no more like Warren P. Cleary, their man in Michigan's Upper Peninsula for a time.

A member of a politically well connected family in Escanaba, Mr. Cleary returned to his home district for ARA after several years in the Foreign Service.

He spent several months on the scene—Mr. Williams says he did a "bang up job"—then resigned to become the Democratic nominee against veteran Republican Rep. Victor A. Knox, a strong foe of ARA.

Despite a slugging campaign in which Mr. Cleary pledged, among other things, to promote economic development of his district through tourism, he was defeated and returned to a Washington job in the Post Office Department.

Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges has conceded that his department has been embarrassed by project approvals being leaked and exploited for political purposes.

U.P. And Nathan

The entire borrowing process can take months, which apparently accounts for the approval of a $1.6 million million loan for a resort hotel last April and a $2.5 million loan for another hotel in July, both for an area of Puerto Rico which ceased to be eligible July 19, 1962.

Technical assistance grants, another aspect of the program, can be initiated by request of a community, a consultant who gets an idea, or from within the agency itself.

Such projects can range from preparation of a community development plan to a $299,000 grant for a University of Pittsburgh study of economic development of the Appalachian region.

They get into aid to education, such as a grant to establish graduate research facilities at a university in Pennsylvania to enable the institution to bid for government and private research contracts.

One item costing taxpayers $123,000 is listed as a demonstration project for multicounty economic development in the Michigan Upper Peninsula. This went to the economic consulting firm of Robert R. Nathan.

Since these projects need not be requested by the community involved, one member of the Advisory Committee points out, they can serve to help generate interest in loan projects and support for the over-all program.

The Area Redevelopment Administration, which now has a staff of 388, mostly in Washington, wants to add another 74, with a few more in the field than at headquarters.

Rich Payoff Made By G. M.

NEW YORK (AP) —General Motors Corp. will pay common stockholders $1,136,000,000 in 1963, by far the richest dividend distribution ever made by a business enterprise.

Directors of GM, the world's largest industrial concern, voted to dip into record high earnings for a special $429-million Christmas season disbursement.

The extra dividend, second of the year for GM, was in addition to a regular quarterly payment of more than $143 million. Checks will be mailed to be received by the 1,060,000 stockholders Dec. 10.

The melon-slicing stemmed from prospects that promise to make this automobile industry boom year the best in production, sales and earnings in GM's 55-year history.

At the half-way and three-quarters marks, the company reported profits never before equaled by any business.

On a per share basis, the 1963 dividend amounts to $4, half of it in regular quarterly payments, half in "extras." The extra declared Monday amounted to $1.50 a share.

The huge payout was expected to have bullish influence on the stock market when trading resumes Thursday after an election day recess.

Excepting American Telephone & Telegraph Co., no other company has nearly as many stockholders as General Motors. GM leads AT&T and all the rest in shares outstanding with 286,516,705.

Sale Of Plants Upsets 500 Jobs

NEW YORK (AP) — About 500 jobs are at stake in Baldwin-Montrose Chemical Co's decision to sell its Baldwin Rubber Division plants at Pontiac and Cass City, Mich., and at Nor-

Of the three piants, the one at Pontiac is the largest, employing about 300 persons.

Herbert J. Siegel, board chairman, said Tuesday the firm's aim was to dispose of the Rubber Division as an operating business. He indicated, however, that the facilities would be shut down unless a sale could be arranged promptly.

Siegel said the Division, which produces rubber floor mats for automobiles, has suffered sizable and increasing losses as automakers switched to carpeted floors in recent years.

The Division went $511,000 into the red in the three months ended Sept. 30, causing a $288,000 loss for the overall Baldwin-Montrose operation, he said.

Nation's Business in its November issue reports on "What's back of fight over ARA. Controversial agency uses tax payer funds to create a demand for more." Presented below are excerpts from the article.

Whatever the New Frontier has done for employment generally, it has solved the unemployment problems for dozens of economists, financial technicians, and technical research experts.

So says an economist who ran a year-long Ford Foundation study of the Area Redevelopment Administration, the federal agency trying to treat chronic unemployment with easy money and advice from Washington.

The effort has created work for the new agency itself, for employes of other departments working with it, and for a zealous ARA sales force whose promotional successes are credited with creating demand for much more in low-cost federal loans than Congress authorized.

A close look at the two-year-old agency—some of its policies, procedures, and people—is in order as it seeks to expand operations amid national debate over its performance.

To compose a picture of the agency, Nation's Business went to sources within and outside of government, including Harold L. Williams, deputy administrator of ARA, and Dr. Sar Levitan of The George Washington University, who heads the $57,000 Ford Foundation study.

Program In Millions

What emerges helps to explain why Dr. Levitan, a long-time supporter of depressed - area legislation, is often critical of the agency, and why even Deputy Administrator Williams says government should move very cautiously before launching itself much deeper into redevelopment efforts.

ARA has its roots in the Employment Act of 1946, which declared it a responsibility of the national government to pursue policies tending to stimulate economic growth and full employment.

It took considerable footwork, Dr. Levitan points out, to jump from that essentially passive role of government to a program authorizing $200 million in commercial and industrial loans, $100 million in other loans and $75 million in grants for public facilities, $4.5 million in technical assisstance, $10 million for job trainees, and $4.5 million for their training.

The agency is headed by Redevelopment Administrator William L. Batt, Jr.

A dedicated New Dealer impressed with President Roosevelt's depression-born welfare programs, Mr. Batt began his career on graduation from Harvard as a staff member with the Temporary National Economic Committee.

Mr. Batt and his top officials are assisted by a National Public Advisory Committee whose members feel that they, unlike those of many other advisory committees set up for mere window dressing, have a real influence on their program.

The committee includes a liberal representation of union officials. It also includes Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, a reliable congressional witness for ARA from an area which is receiving $3,679,000 in loans, including $1.9 million for the deluxe Pontchartrain Hotel and $1 million for a motor hotel.

Another member is Clyde T. Ellis, general manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association. Mr. Ellis, along with a spokesman for the American Public Power Association, recently urged President Kennedy to back a TVA-type authority for the area embracing nine states in the Appalachian Area.

Another is C. Benton Musslewhite of Lufkin, Tex., who has been active in state Democratic politics, serves as campaign assistant for the Democratic National Committee, and tried to unseat incumbent Rep. John Dowdy in the Democratic primary (before his appointment to the committee).

Congressman Dowdy expects a return match, claiming that Mr Musslewhite appears to be using ARA as a vehicle in diligent politicking back home.

Local Initiative

Hers's how the program operates once a community makes the list—which requires no local action and in some cases happens over the community's protest:

To participate, the community must first establish what the Senate Banking Committee describes as: ". . . a broadly based local organization representing a cross section of all elements of the community to assess the economic conditions of that area and to act as the local corrdinator for redevelopment activities."

As a second step, this group must draft an over-all economic development program (OEDP) as a guide for community action. The program must be approved by state and federal officials before a loan application will be considered.

This initial process is cited by partisans of ARA as a primary benefit of the program, on the theory that it galvanizes depressed communities to forge a cooperative effort, stimulates local initiative, and brings about long-needed self-appraisal of problems and prospects.

The Labor Force

How has the system worked up to this point

In many cases the plans are "practically meaningless," says Dr. Levitan, who points out that in one state the process consisted simply of an agency's cranking out plans for every county in the state.

Consultant John Fletcher Wellemeyer, who was hired by ARA to evaluate a batch of these plans to determine whether they were geared to local labor force conditions, adds further evidence.

Asked by Nation's Business how the planners erred in considering the manpower question, he replied: "The most common type of deficiency was that they didn't mention it at all."

The ARA field representatives, whose salaries are in the $12,000 range, include men with experience in business and finance, industrial development work, armed services community relations, farming, municipal government, and federal agencies.

Cleary And Politics

They also include men who have held state appointive jobs, and former administrative assistants to congressmen, elected city officials, state legislators.

The agency can hire consultants to do field work, but officials have assured Congress that they have no more like Warren P. Cleary, their man in Michigan's Upper Peninsula for a time.

A member of a politically well connected family in Escanaba, Mr. Cleary returned to his home district for ARA after several years in the Foreign Service.

He spent several months on the scene—Mr. Williams says he did a "hang up job"—then resigned to become the Democratic nominee against veteran Republican Rep. Victor A. Knox, a strong foe of ARA.

Despite a slugging campaign in which Mr. Cleary pledged, among other things, to promote economic development of his district through tourism, he was defeated and returned to a Washington job in the Post Office Department.

Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges has conceded that his department has been embarrassed by project approvals being leaked and exploited for political purposes.

U.P. And Nathan

The entire borrowing process can take months, which apparently accounts for the approval of a $1.6 million million loan for a resort hotel last April and a 32.5 million loan for another hotel in July, both for an area of Puerto Rico which ceased to be eligible July 19, 1962.

Technical assistance grants, another aspect of the program, can be initiated by request of a community, a consultant who gets an idea, or from within the agency itself.

Such projects can range from preparation of a community development plan to a $299,000 grant for a University of Pittsburgh study of economic development of the Appalachian region.

They get into aid to education, such as a grant to establish graduate research facilities at a university in Pennsylvania to enable the institution to bid for government and private research contracts.

One item costing taxpayers $123,060 is listed as a demonstration project for multicounty economic development in the Michigan Upper Peninsula. This went to the economic consulting firm of Robert R. Nathan.

Since these projects need not be requested by the community involved, one member of the Advisory Committee points out, they can serve to help generate interest in loan projects and support for the over-all program.

The Area Redevelopment Administration, which now has a staff of 388, mostly in Washington, wants to add another 74, with a few more in the field than at headquarters.

Rich Payoff Made By G. M.

NEW YORK (AP) —General Motors Corp. will pay common stockholders $1,136,000,000 in 1963, by far the richest dividend distribution ever made by a business enterprise.

Directors of GM, the world's largest industrial concern, voted to dip into record high earnings for a special $429-million Christmas season disbursement.

The extra dividend, second of the year for GM, was in addition to a regular quarterly payment of more than $143 million. Checks will be mailed to be received by the 1,060,000 stockholders Dec. 10.

The melon-slicing stemmed from prospects that promise to make this automobile industry boom year the best in production, sales and earnings in GM's 55-year history.

At the half-way and three-quarters marks, the company reported profits never before equaled by any business.

On a per share basis, the 1963 dividend amounts to $4, half of it in regular quarterly payments, half in "extras." The extra declared Monday amounted to $1.50 a share.

The huge payout was expected to have bullish influence on the stock market when trading resumes Thursday after an election day recess.

Excepting American Telephone & Telegraph Co., no other company has nearly as many stockholders as General Motors. GM leads AT&T and all the rest in shares outstanding with 286,516,705.

Sale Of Plants Upsets 500 Jobs

NEW YORK (AP) — About 500 jobs are at stake in Baldwin-Montrose Chemical Co's decision to sell its Baldwin Rubber Division plants at Pontiac and Cass City, Mich., and at Nor-

Of the three plants, the one at Pontiac is the largest, employing about 300 persons.

Herbert J. Siegel, board chairman, said Tuesday the firm's aim was to dispose of the Rubber Division as an operating business. He indicated, however, that the facilities would be shut down unless a sale could be arranged promptly.

Siegel said the Division, which produces rubber floor mats for automobiles, has suffered sizable and increasing losses as automakers switched to carpeted floors in recent years.

The Division went $511,000 into the red in the three months ended Sept. 30, causing a $288,000 loss for the overall Baldwin-Montrose operation, he said.
